

U.S. Rules Out Further Concessions To Red Truce Negotiators

Bombing Of China Under Consideration

Washington (AP) — President Truman put the stamp of finality on the United Nations stand in Korean truce negotiations yesterday with an assertion that "we will not buy an armistice by turning over human beings for slaughter or slavery."

His formal pronouncement was the climax of a series of official American statements on the issue, all aimed at making clear to the Communists and to the world in general that there will be no more concessions.

The President followed up statements from:

One—Deputy Defense Secretary William C. Foster who told newsmen that the package deal offered to the Reds in Korea was "final" but not an ultimatum. He confirmed that a naval blockade of Communist China and direct attack on the Chinese mainland have been considered among actions that might be taken in event of a final breakdown of truce talks.

Two—Secretary of State Dean Acheson who described the Communist-rejected formula as "fair and reasonable" and told a news conference that if the Communists really wanted a truce they would accept.

As proposed by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway—and turned down by the Reds—the offer was to get all the remaining truce obstacles out of the way by (A) allowing the Reds to repair and build North Korean air fields, (B) throwing out the Communist proposal to bring in Russia as a "neutral" nation to help police a truce and (C) dropping the Red demand for repatriation of all prisoners of war whether they want to go back to their own lines or not.

The last item in that list is the one on which the United States took its firm stand.

"The three parts of Gen. Ridgway's proposal are all parts of a whole," President Truman said. "They must be considered as an entity—not piecemeal. Our agreement is contingent upon acceptance of the whole proposal. This is our position."

"The Communists thus far have indicated only a willingness to withdraw their proposal that the USSR be a member of the neutral inspection commission. This spurious issue was raised by them late in negotiations and its withdrawal is no real concession on their part."

State Income Running Ahead Of Expenses

Harrisburg (AP)—Commonwealth income currently is running about 30 million dollars ahead of expectations, a fiscal survey showed yesterday.

But State budget officials warned that strikes or other industrial disturbances could change the picture very quickly.

On the basis of present revenue returns, the Commonwealth may wind up the first half of the 1951-53 biennium about 30 millions over estimated receipts.

General fund tax collections as of April 30 were listed at $343,365,445 against an estimate of $337,358,724. Delinquent tax payments from truck and bus companies totaled about 7 million and another five millions in unrecorded corporate tax revenues, brings general fund surplus income for the 11-month period to about 18 millions.

To add to this surplus amount, the State Revenue Department has reported that motor fund revenues are about $13,600,000 ahead of estimates. This makes an indicated surplus of around 30 millions.

Whether this high revenue rate will continue depends largely on industrial activity for the remainder of the biennium, said Dr. Edward B. Logan, state budget secretary.

Is Brassiere Work Of Art?

Karlsruhe, Germany (AP)—Is a brassiere a work of art? A manufacturer who thinks it was told by a judge yesterday that "only its contents may be art, but not the product itself."

Therefore, the judge ruled, the manufacturer cannot claim a rival firm had violated the "art protection law" by producing a bra similar to the model of his firm.

For almost a year, a court dispute on bras has been going on between the Felina firm of Mannheim and the Triumph firm of Heubach.

Vandenberg Predicts Russia Will Be Ready To Launch Atom-Bomb Attack By 1954

Washington (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, arguing against a cut in military funds, said yesterday that by 1954 Russia will have the means of launching a long-range atomic attack against the United States.

The Air Force chief of staff said: "Unless effectively opposed and countered, this attack could neutralize our own ability to retaliate and at the same time could seriously cripple certain key centers of the industrial productivity upon which we depend for ultimate victory in war," he said.

His statement was read to a closed session of a Senate armed services subcommittee by his vice chief of staff, Gen. Nathan F.

Twining, and made available to the press. Vandenberg himself entered a hospital for an exploratory operation to find the source of severe abdominal pain.

Later a Pentagon spokesman described the operation as "serious." Secretary of Air Finletter told reporters that the air chief's surgeon had told him Vandenberg withstood the operation well, and was resting comfortably.

The House has cut the military budget for the coming fiscal year by 4½ billion dollars and voted to limit actual military spending to 46 billion, some six billion under administration plans.

Now the Senate subcommittee is studying the defense requests.

Ridgway Offers Final Deal For Armistice, Invites Reds To Watch Screening Of POWs

Munsan, Korea, (AP)—Korean truce talks—verging on collapse after Red rejection of the Allies' final compromise offer—continued at Communist request today. The outlook is dark.

The Reds gave no reason in asking for another top-level session at Pannunjom with the shroud of secrecy removed.

The full-dress session lasted 18 minutes. Negotiators agreed to meet again tomorrow.

Secret negotiations broke down Wednesday over the key issue of prisoner exchange.

The United Nations Command, declaring it never would force prisoners to return to Red soil against their will, said bluntly that further debate was pointless and called for an indefinite recess.

The Communists then asked that the delegates meet again.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, on instructions from Washington, had presented this "final, clear and irrevocable" package proposal for a settlement:

One—The 70,000 Chinese and North Korean soldiers who want to return to Red rule would be exchanged for the 12,000 Allied prisoners in Red hands. The remaining 57,600 prisoners who refuse repatriation would again be asked "by any suitable international body or joint Red Cross teams" if they still would forcibly oppose being returned to the Communists. The Reds could watch that screening.

Two—The Allies would drop their objections to repair and construction of airfields in North Korea during a truce.

Three—The Communists would withdraw their nomination of Russia as a neutral armistice supervisor.

Jay Cooke Comes Out In Support Of Eisenhower

Philadelphia (AP)—Jay Cooke, a Pennsylvania Republican political leader long associated with the conservative elements of the party, yesterday announced he will support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination.

Cooke, who was backed by former U. S. Sen. Joseph Grundy and lost the Pennsylvania Republican gubernatorial nomination to present Gov. John S. Fine in 1950, said he thought Eisenhower was best equipped to attract the independent voter.

"I wish to win next November," he continued, "and to do so we must attract to the support of our Republican candidate both independent and Democratic voters, because the registration, particularly in the large cities and the so-called Solid South is predominately Democratic."

"In my judgment, Gen. Eisenhower is the candidate best equipped to attract this support."

Kefauver, Taft Take Over Lead In Delegates; Both Predict Victory At Chicago Conventions

By The Associated Press
Tennessee's Estes Kefauver and Ohio's Robert A. Taft swept into the lead in the nation-wide races for delegates yesterday and both promptly posted claims of virtually certain victory at the Chicago presidential nominating conventions in July.

Kefauver said that on the basis of a striking upset in Ohio—and a strong but losing display in Florida—he is now "practically assured" of winning the Democratic nomination.

Taft told newsmen he will "never be headed" in his bid for the Republican prize.

Registering a landslide victory in his native Ohio, Taft surged well in front of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the battle for delegates by capturing the state's entire 56-vote delegation.

His opponent, former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, scored a blank. Eisenhower was not entered in the contest, though most of Stassen's delegate candidates had promised to turn to the general as their second choice at Chicago.

The latest Associated Press tabulation—based on the known alignment of delegates chosen so far—showed the front-running candidates in this order:

Republicans—Taft 332, Eisenhower 286, Stassen 23. Taft himself claims over 400.

Democrats—Kefauver 104½, foreign aid chief W. Averell Harriman 93½, Sen. Richard B. Russell 41½.

Nomination requires 604 GOP votes, 616 Democratic votes.

Kefauver suffered a 50,000-vote defeat at the hands of Georgia's Sen. Russell in Florida—the South's only "popularity" primary

Oil Workers Reject Plea To End Strike

Denver (AP)—The nationwide oil strike will continue, O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Worker's International Union, CIO said yesterday, adding that the union will attend a Wage Stabilization Board meeting May 13 as requested.

Knight, in a press conference, read a lengthy telegram to Nathan Feinsinger, WSB chairman.

"In light of the history of the dispute and the WSB's apparent inability to affect industry participation in WSB hearings we have no alternative but to continue our strike," he said.

Knight, in his telegram, said the dispute dates back to September, 1951, and said that three times the strike has been postponed.

He said the strike actually went into effect almost two months after its original effective date.

"We have patiently attempted to achieve peaceful settlement but to no avail. We have been finally forced to strike and we must continue striking until settlements are reached."

In Washington, the wage board put off, at least until today any decision regarding the oil dispute.

However, WSB Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger told the House Labor Committee yesterday that if the board fails to obtain an end to the strike, it would probably send the dispute back to the White House.

James K. Knudson, defense transport administrator, told newsmen in the capital a prolonged strike would create serious problems and it may become necessary to clamp some restrictions on civilian transport.

Knudson said, however, that he does not believe it will be necessary to ration gasoline and oil as was done in World War Two.

Among possible restrictions, he cited measures to allocate supplies and steps to minimize empty trucking operations.

Fleischmann Resigns As DPA Chief

Washington (AP)—President Truman yesterday accepted with "great reluctance" the resignation of Manly Fleischmann as defense production administrator.

The President immediately asked the Senate to approve Henry H. Fowler as Fleischmann's successor in DPA. Fowler at present is Fleischmann's top lieutenant, his title being administrator of the National Production Authority.

The President in effect merged the two offices by asking Fowler to keep his old post as well as fill Fleischmann's.

The proposed change of command appeared to indicate little, if any, change in the policies of DPA, which controls the nation's industrial output and parcels out scarce materials, to meet defense requirements.

Fleischmann asked to be relieved by June 1. He told a reporter this week he plans to return to private business after a spell of "looking at the waves." Fleischmann is a Buffalo, N. Y., lawyer.

Fowler, a native of Roanoke, Va., is a lawyer whose private practice has been in Washington, D. C.

Marine Reserves May Now Resign

Washington (AP)—The Marine Corps announced yesterday 38,000 organized and inactive reservists can resign or request discharge.

The new policy affects only reservists who served on active duty before June 24, 1948, and were recalled to active duty after the Korean War started.

The policy does not affect the current tour of duty. It will apply to them when they are released from active duty, however, if they served on active duty before June 24, 1948.

Rice Purchases Illegal

Washington (AP)—A government investigator said yesterday that 85 per cent of the rice the Commodity Credit Corp. bought for $2,700,000 in 1949 was ineligible for government price support.

Unions Fight Rail Seizure

Washington (AP)—Three big railroad operating unions said yesterday they will ask the Supreme Court to rule on the government's seizure of railroads at the same time it rules on President Truman's seizure of the steel industry.

The court has scheduled arguments for next Monday on Judge David A. Pine's decision that seizure of the steel mills on April 8 was illegal and unconstitutional.

Attorneys for the three brotherhoods—the engineers, conductors and firemen—said in a statement here they have filed notice of appeal with the U. S. Appeals Court in Cincinnati, challenging a no-strike order issued by the U. S. District Court in Cleveland April 23.

That order prohibits an estimated 150,000 members of the three unions from striking. The roads were taken over by the government in 1950 to avert a threatened strike by two of the four operating unions.

Dilworth Assails McGranery As Petty Politician

Washington (AP)—Dist. Atty. Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia denounced Federal Judge James P. McGranery as "fundamentally a small-time politician" at a Senate hearing yesterday in challenging McGranery's fitness to become attorney general of the United States.

Dilworth told newsmen that was the gist of his testimony at a closed-door session of the Senate Judiciary Committee which is weighing President Truman's nomination of McGranery for the No. 1 Justice Department post. The President named McGranery to succeed J. Howard McGrath after McGrath fired Newbold Morris as federal anti-corruption chief on April 3.

Gross Testifies To $15,000 Political Shakedown By Moran, O'Dwyer Pal, In 1949

New York (AP)—Bookie king Harry Gross testified yesterday he was shaken down for a $15,000 political contribution during the 1940 campaign of former Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Gross said he paid the money to O'Dwyer's pal, James J. Moran, a top office holder throughout that Democratic city administration. There was no clue as to what Moran did with the money.

Moran is now serving 12½ to 28½ years in prison for a shakedown of fuel oil installers when he was O'Dwyer's first deputy fire commissioner.

Gross, finally talking, also claimed to have made graft payments to police Inspector William P. O'Brien, who later became O'Dwyer's hand-picked police commissioner.

Gross electrified a departmental trial of five policemen, allegedly mixed up in Gross' protection payoffs, when he mentioned Moran's name in connection with a police department matter.

"Had you known Moran previously?" asked Victor J. Herwitz, lawyer for the city.

Gross then related that he gave Moran a $5,000 political contribution during O'Dwyer's first mayoralty campaign in 1945. The bookie did not indicate whether he volunteered this offering.

Four years later, Gross went on, Moran demanded $1,000 from him for each of the 27 horse betting rooms he was operating at the time.

"They wanted it that way but we settled for a little cheaper," the flashy gambler testified. "We settled for $15,000."

Bucknell Man Electrocutated

Lewisburg (AP)—A Bucknell University student was electrocuted last night as he was helping to install a television antenna.

Frank John Pilarek, 25, of Nanticoke, was instantly killed when a strong wind blew the antenna's lead-in wire against a high tension line carrying 12,000 volts. Pilarek was holding a guy wire on the ground at Bucknell Village, a housing development on the outskirts of Lewisburg.

Truman Aides Oppose Ban On Strikes

Washington (AP)—The Truman administration yesterday raised sharp objections to a proposal to block strikes in defense industries through use of receivership for both companies and unions, backed by continuing injunctions.

At the same time Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger of the Wage Stabilization Board testified that new danger in such important industries as oil, iron ore and aluminum would be the immediate result if WSB were shorn of the power to recommend settlements in labor disputes.

The arguments were laid before two House committees studying ways of avoiding such crisis as the steel dispute.

Feinsinger testified before the Labor Committee in its investigation of the wage board and its handling of the steel situation. The anti-strike bill was up before the Armed Services Committee which got the administration view in a letter from Ralph Wright, assistant secretary of labor.

Regulation W Dropped For Credit Sales

Washington (AP)—Controls over installment buying were suspended yesterday because the government decided inflationary dangers have eased off.

For the consumer, the decision means no government requirements as to down payments or time to pay for automobiles, furniture, radio and television sets, and scores of other items.

Many authorities said the result would be a trend toward small down payments and more time to pay. Dealers and finance companies still may impose their own terms, in the absence of government regulations.

Industry hoped for an immediate boost in sales, which have been lagging in some fields. But some officials said they thought the stimulant would be slight, and perhaps only temporary.

The Federal Reserve Board's Regulation "W" has required a one-third down payment on automobiles and 15 per cent down on most other items, with 18 months to pay.

The board said it had decided unanimously to suspend the regulation after "a careful review of developments in the economy generally and in the markets directly affected."

The board urged Congress to extend its control powers, now due to expire June 30, so the installment buying curbs can be imposed again if needed in any new inflationary upsurge.

Yesterday's action was another in a series of steps in which the government has noted a lessening of inflationary threats.

Foreign Aid Bill Advances

Washington (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday unanimously approved a $6,889,100,000 foreign aid bill which includes Spain for the first time. The approved bill was cut by $1,010,900,000 from the $7,900,000,000 originally requested by President Truman, with all of the reductions taken from funds earmarked for Europe.

This leaves a total authorization of 4½ billion dollars for military assistance abroad—mostly guns and other war equipment—for the year ending June 30, 1953.

In addition to this, the committee voted to give military officials the authority to transfer one billion dollars worth of equipment from American stocks to foreign allies if the need arises.

The House measure mentions Spain by name as eligible for assistance and specifies that at least 25 million dollars from European funds shall be used there for economic, technical and military aid. This is in addition to 100 million dollars already earmarked for Spain but unspent.

Mayor Loses Race To Remove Grave Marker

Tombstone, Ariz. (AP)—A souvenir hunter apparently beat Mayor Wally C. Foster to the draw in taking down the famed "he done his damndest" grave marker in Boothill Cemetery.

Foster disclosed yesterday that he went to the cemetery Sunday to remove the disputed marker only to find that it had been taken away Saturday night.

"I guess a souvenir hunter got it," Foster said.

The marker reading, "Jack Williams. He done his damndest," was put on an unmarked grave in the famous old burial grounds a few years ago after President Truman referred to it in a campaign speech. The President recently said in a press conference that he wanted to be remembered in the manner of that epitaph.

Miss Skelton To Be Crowned Queen Of May

Newfoundland — Miss Betty Lou Skelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Skelton, Sterling, will be crowned May Queen at the 10th annual May Day festival at Greene-Dreher-Sterling school Friday.

In order to handle the crowd which has overtaken the seating facilities in the local auditorium in past years, the event will be staged twice this year. An afternoon performance, scheduled for 2:30, will be presented for students and at 8 p.m., another presentation will be made for the general public.

Sponsored by the Senior Tri-Hi-Y, the production is under the direction of Miss Florence Grimm, home economics instructor at the school and a former May Queen. All students of the first six grades of the school will participate in the various dances and musical numbers.

Officiating at Miss Skelton's coronation will be Gloria Hansen, the 1951 Queen. Miss Skelton will be attended by Carol Hart, crown bearer; Alice Evans, train bearer; Judy Smith and Donna Bartleson, flower bearers and a court of 12 girls of the senior class of the school.

Following the coronation, the grade school pupils will entertain the newly-crowned Queen in a program of songs and dances. Theme of this year's fete is "Children Honor The Queen," a simple portrayal of the May Day custom in song and dance.

The narrative was written by Miss Grimm. Sandra Rohrbacher and Stephen Luckey will be the narrators. Dances were taught by the girls of the junior class and the musical portion of the program is under the direction of Harold Wild.

The day's festivities will be climaxed with a semi-formal dance in the auditorium immediately following the night's performance.

Committees in charge follow:

Heeter Youth Pulls Boy From Water In Baltimore

The 14-year-old son of former local couple is credited by authorities in Baltimore, Md., with playing an important role in attempting to save the life of a drowning boy Sunday.

Robert Heeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Heeter received the plaudits of press and radio for his part in rescuing a six-year-old boy who fell from a river's bank into 15 feet of water.

Swimming to the child's side, young Heeter brought him to shore and stood by while artificial respiration was applied by Baltimore firemen. A 10-year-old companion of the boy rescued by young Heeter drowned in the same spot while the former East Stroudsburg youth was rescuing his friend. Police and firemen dragged the river's bottom for some time before recovering his body.

Later Sunday night the child rescued by Heeter died in a Baltimore hospital. Word of the heroic attempt was relayed to Mrs. Cora Hendershot, 821 Monroe St., Stroudsburg, by young Heeter's mother, the former Gladys Snyder, daughter of Mrs. A. M. Snyder.

How to Go Broke

Two items from Harrisburg caught our eye the other day. We list them here as a perfect example of what goes on when government gets too big, too expensive and too careless.

One concerned the General State Authority, a device for evading the state debt limit by borrowing money to build institutions, then renting them to the state until the debt is repaid.

The present Authority was created by the 1949 Legislature and authorized to borrow $175 millions. The 1951 Legislature upped the limit to $235 millions.

Now, state agencies are pouring in requests for new buildings. Among them is the Welfare Department, which wants $51,842,425 worth.

That brings us to the second item, which concerns a new building at the Danville State Mental Hospital, administered by the same Welfare Department.

The new building was built by the same General State Authority. It cost $1,500,000 and was finished more than a year ago. It is fully equipped at a cost of $100,000 and it has enough space and facilities to relieve overcrowding at the hospital and provide treatment.

But the new building isn't being used because last year's State Legislature failed to provide the $190,000 needed for a staff of doctors, nurses and other attendants.

The Legislature was in session for a year and had plenty of time to consider wrinkles like this. It apparently had plenty of money, too, for it passed a batch of new taxes and approved a two-year budget in the neighborhood of $1,300,000,000.

Our brand-new building at Danville lies idle and we're paying the interest on the money we borrowed to build it. The sick get no benefit from it, and neither do we.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—Housewives are now paying for the government's bungling in trying to control potato production. Prices will be higher, supplies scarcer and good table grade spuds practically unattainable.

Department of Agriculture officials hope the shortage will only be temporary, but they admit that the potato market today is in a mess because of previous government regulations that cost us taxpayers $500,000,000 and led to the destruction of millions of bushels of potatoes.

Americans consume 1,000,000 bushels of potatoes a day, but unless the price ceiling is raised there won't be that many available in the market for several months. Some growers are talking about a 20 per cent increase in potato prices to stimulate more farm interest in spud growing. The idiotic price support program, brought thousands of new growers into the market who made money on submarginal land by producing below-grade potatoes to sell to the government. Top grade growers in Maine, Florida, California and Long Island, New York, stayed in the potato business when regulations and support prices were discontinued in 1951, but most of them cut their acreage.

Right now potatoes are being shipped into this country from Canada and Spain, although the quantity is not large. The U.S. normally imports potatoes from Canada at this time of the year, anyway. Since 1951, however, Canada has been buying large quantities of cheap U.S. spuds. Our prices are controlled, Canadian spud prices are not, so Canada has made a good thing out of buying from us and their selling here back at better prices.

The Department of Agriculture, naturally, will make a political issue out of the potato situation. It is still loaded with political philosophers who want to control everything and support the price of everything grown on the farm. It practically broke their hearts when Congress got sick of seeing huge mounds of spuds being destroyed and knocked out the price support program. Officials are getting set to blame Congress and praise the administration's wisdom in wanting to retain the price support program or reinstate it now.

Nothing would be solved, however, if the government got back into the potato market with another wasteful buying program.

The same marginal producers would start digging spuds again. What is needed now is a little more time so the good producers can increase their acreage and yield by investing in fertilizer and other growing aids. In California for instance, potato producers are increasing their acreage by about 20 per cent, while throughout the country there is an average of 20 per cent fewer acres of farm land going into potato production.

Florida spuds are beginning to arrive in the eastern markets but most of them have not matured fully. Growers are digging them prematurely to take advantage of the higher wholesale prices now prevailing. The potato mess is just another example of what happens when the government attempts to control the economy. And when the Department of Agriculture let go, producers were caught off balance, with no way of knowing what demand there would be for spuds in the future, or how many competitors would stay in business after the lush government market ended.

It takes time to adjust the law of supply and demand after government economists finish tampering with it. The Department of Agriculture estimates that we will be short 10 million bushels of good-grade "table" potatoes this year, even though there is no acreage control, but they do not know how much production will be increased by the big growers.

The short supply of spuds creates its own vicious circle. The shortage sends the price of seed spuds up and this in turn discourages some planters. Right now it costs about $100 to plant an acre of potatoes. Last year it cost from $45 to $55.

Government economists, of course, are feeling sorry for potato growers and are itching to get the spuds back under controls again. Potato growers, however, haven't had a lean year in quite some time, and they don't want it. If the government keeps its hand off, the producers will win the battle to rescue their business from the tampering of the economic planners.

Beware of Hitchhikers

State and city police, automobile clubs and national associations, the press and countless other representatives of the public have warned for many years about the hazard inherent in picking up the knights of the road who seek to travel with a wave of the thumb.

This hazard was emphasized in Pennsylvania Sunday night when a young Indian Gap soldier, out of the goodness of his heart, picked up two civilian hitch-hikers and was rewarded for his generous gesture by being robbed and shot. The armed travelers took off.

It may seem an ungenerous gesture to pass up a youngster standing in lonely hopefulness along the street or highway, especially if he be a man in uniform. The imagination envisages a boy hurrying home on a brief leave from military duties, or returning from the Korean front, or perhaps on the way back to civilian life he formerly led.

It may seem heartless to drive past these lads, especially if your car is empty, but such incidents as the shooting of the soldier who picked up the two men near Sunbury points to the other side of the picture.

Too many times during the years since thumbing a ride became virtually a national institution, assault, robbery, and murder have been the reward of many who stopped to take a stranger aboard.

Call it callous, or heartless, or just plain selfish, but the fact remains that the man who drives past the hopeful hitcher of hikers is more sure of returning safely to his home than one who stops.

The banana, until today, has always been simply a banana. It was something to eat; something that was fattening if you ate too many of them; something that, according to Chiquita Banana, grew at the Equator and should therefore never be kept in the refrigerator. The banana has become a classic, an adventurer, the subject of a 28-page scientific research under the auspices of the American Oriental Society.

This research, published in the form of a pamphlet by the United Fruit Company, concludes with this impressive paragraph: "This field of culture history is challenging and worthy of continuing intensive research, so that we may broaden our knowledge of the history of those food plants which—like the banana—are of economic importance and have come down to us through the ages."

I want to say right here that I cannot for the life of me see why the banana should have such enormous cultural importance.

My own experience with bananas is that if I eat too many of them I get fat, and if I eat them cold (we DO keep them in the refrigerator)

United States Supreme Court on a writ of certiorari.

In our system of checks and balances, the executive and legislative branches of government are independent of the judicial, but the majesty of the law crowns all three who must abide by it. The issue in hand is not wages, prices, profits, steel or cigarette butts. The issue is whether the President may function without a law.

In one of the earliest and most important cases argued before the Supreme Court, Chisholm vs. Georgia, Justice James Wilson in 1793, only four years after the Constitution was adopted, fully stated the authority of the American nation over all men within it. This decision knocks down any theory of unlimited powers and is the first step in establishing the right of judicial review. I quote from it the applicable paragraph:

"Whoever considers in a combined and comprehensive view the general texture of the Constitution will be satisfied that the people of the United States intended to form themselves into a nation for national purposes. They instituted, for such purposes, a national government, complete in all its parts, with powers legislative, executive and judicial; and in all those powers extending over the whole nation. Is it congruous that, with regard to such purposes, any person, natural or artificial, should be permitted to claim successfully an entire exemption from the jurisdiction of the national government? Would not such claims, crowned with success, be repugnant to our very existence as a nation?"

The court decided that it possessed the power, in this particular case, to review matters between States and between a citizen and a State.

Ten years later, in 1803, Chief Justice John Marshall wrote the outstanding decision of Marbury vs. Madison, which established beyond doubt the authority of the Supreme Court to provide judicial review where needed. He wrote: "The judicial power of the United States is extended to all cases arising under the Constitution."

"Could it be the intention of those who gave this power to say that in using it the Constitution should not be looked into? That a case arising under the Constitution should be decided without examining the instrument under which it arises?"

"This is too extravagant to be maintained. In some cases, then, the Constitution must be looked into by the judges. And if they can open it at all, what part of it are they forbidden to read or to obey?" Marshall decided:

"Thus, the particular phraseology of the Constitution of the United States confirms and strengthens the principle, supposed to be essential to all written constitutions, that a law repugnant to the Constitution is void, and that courts, as well as other departments, are bound by that instrument."

In the Steel Seizure Case, the President has taken a step for which he has no law. In a word, he has exceeded his authority. That is the purport of Judge Pine's decision, which says: "These (enumerated by him) are the only sections of the Constitution which have any possible relevancy, and their mere enumeration shows the utter fallacy of defendant's claim."

"Neither singly nor in the aggregate do they grant the President, expressly or impliedly, as that term has hereinbefore been defined, the 'residuum of power' or 'inherent' power which authorizes him, as defendant claims, to take such action as he may deem to be necessary, including seizure of plaintiffs' properties, whenever in his opinion an emergency exists requiring him to do so in the public interests. Instead, in Congress is lodged, within Constitutional limitations, the power to provide for the common defense and general welfare."

The Supreme Court has held that it has no general supervising power over the proceedings and actions of the various administrative departments of government. However, the court may decide on the rights of individuals (or corporations) under the Constitution. The confiscation of property and protection against executive acts unwarranted by law do properly come within the scope of the judicial power.

The unanimous decision of the Supreme Court last Saturday to accept jurisdiction in the appeals of the various parties to Judge Pine's decision, and the issuance of a stay forbidding the change of the status quo regarding wages, unless mutually agreed upon, of itself establishes the truth that in the United States, no official, including the President, possesses unlimited powers.

There's an antique shop in an up-state New York village, according to John Straley, whose proprietor is a whimsical octogenarian who has his own way of doing things. Above the clock is a sign reading, "This clock is only for the use of people who buy something." Another placard assures visitors, "All our antiques were made on the premises." And above an old brass cuspidor in the corner, a poster proclaims, "If this town is bombed, just jump in here. Nobody ever hit it yet."

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood — Three shy, unflustered young British beauties got The Treatment in Hollywood the other day. It's a process known as Meeting The Press. And leave it to Hollywood—it was done properly. Since they were Britons, tea was served.

F. Hugh Herbert, the writer-director, staged it with his wife at their stono-fronted Mel Arhome. Herbert wrote, and will direct, a movie called "Pleasure Island."

"It's about an Englishman living on a Pacific island with his three daughters who have grown up there," Herbert told me. "The only way to gather any information at these parties is to get there on time. That puts you far ahead of everybody else."

"Suddenly 1,500 U. S. Marines land on the island. From then on, it's the frantic effort of the father to protect the virtue of his daughters from the U. S. Marines."

Because of accent requirements, Herbert wanted real English girls to play the parts. He traveled to London. "It was the week of the King's funeral," he recalled. "The papers were delighted to 'use' anything to lighten the gloom, so the Paramount offices and my hotel room were deluged with applicants."

The three lookers he picked had had no movie experience. Audrey Dalton, 18, who resembles Joan Bennett, was born in Dublin and lived there until two years ago. Her father is Sam Goldwyn's London representative.

Joan Egan, 22, was born in Ceylon and raised there and in Surrey. Her father is a retired tea grower. Dorothy Bromley, 21, was born in Manchester. Her

Double Feature
The contention that Harry Truman will bear watching in the coming Presidential Convention Sweepstakes was borne out by a recent event, the President's performance against the Kentucky Derby. It marked the debut of both the Derby and the President on a video entertainment program. Both came at almost the same time. (We thought Harry gave Hill Gail a battle all the way. While we wouldn't call it a photo, we would certainly place the President closer to the winner than Sub Fleet or Blue Man. Harry made a great showing at the weights.)

In fact, H.E.S.T. surprised all form students. They had him tabbed on past performance as an excitable, temperamental fellow plenty troublesome. Some folks expected him to be difficult to handle. But he showed a most complete form reversal and was cool, calm and free of irritability at all times. Our chart writer, a little confused through seeing both the President's White House tour and the Derby by video, summed up this way: "Harry fooled everybody by not cutting up at all. Don't forget that he had come off two tough heats, a gruelling speech the night before on corruption and a tough six furlongs with the steel magnates and workers that afternoon. But he came on the track fresh and fit."

Our chart would have read: "Harry broke fast in the main lobby and was under a pull in the diplomatic reception room. Cronkite up. He was just galloping father is a cotton buyer and part-time sports writer. All the girls have had dramatic training. Herbert who chose them after interviewing some 200 applicants and screen-testing nine, said: "They have really amazing dramatic ability."

Don Taylor, who'll play a Marine lieutenant who wins Audrey's love, was under the party. He said: "They have lots of zip; I think they'll be fine."

Joan said this whole experience of being picked and whisked here of plans to act in a Hollywood movie was "like a fairy tale." Audrey said they'd been here "fortnight." I asked Dorothy what had impressed her most about America.

"The Throtlebottom role believable! Hartman makes it straight burlesque . . . Overheard at a vocatryout: 'You can't sing like Johnny Ray; you haven't the facial muscles for it.'"

Russell Shiffer Resigns As Borough Public Works Director

No Successor Named; Health Job Still Open

Russell R. Shiffer, superintendent of public works in Stroudsburg since 1940 has resigned. A letter of resignation submitted to council last night was accepted to "very deep regrets."

Council will hold a special meeting in the near future to consider applicants for the important post. Mr. Shiffer will continue to work until a successor is named.

Members of council voted to continue Edward Shep, secretary of board of health as acting health officer pending advice to current applicants for that post that they will be required to spend at least 12 weeks at a special health officer's school in Pittsburgh.

There were a number of applicants for the health post—made vacant by the death of John Young—but council felt all of them should know the post will be a full-time job and that three months' schooling is a prerequisite.

H. L. Keiper and his counsel, Attorney C. Edward DePuy appeared before council regarding an investigation which Engineer Edward C. Less made regarding reports the Keiper laundry is hooked to the borough sewage system.

Council referred the entire matter to their solicitor, George T. Robinson. Mr. Robinson will file a report at a special meeting of council on which council will base its action.

Charles Yaggie, East Stroudsburg RD, was awarded a contract for curbing, curb and gutter and sidewalk replacement on Williams St. and Mill alley. His bid was $2,370.90.

James Somers, borough treasurer reported receipts of $5,622, expenses of $7,749.24 and a balance of $10,254.71 in regular account. For the sewer account receipts during the past month were $8,973.48, expenses $1,759.12 and balance May 1, $13,029.77.

Mr. Shiffer reported expenditures of $1,842.70 on April authorizations.

Chief of Police James F. McConnell reported 96 arrests and citations and $384 in fines for April.

Assistant Fire Chief Fred Miller reported a number of fires, largely grass fires, which involved 149 man-hours per fire and utilized use of 3,600 feet of large hose, 600 feet of inch and a half and 700 feet of booster hose.

Nearly 80 Parents Attend Child Guidance Conference

The documentary film "Angry Boy" provided discussion material last night at Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church for a group of nearly 80 parents who attended a meeting devoted to National Mental Health Week.

Dr. Charles Morris, of the Monroe-Northampton Child Guidance Clinic, acted as moderator for the discussion period which followed the showing of the film. Dr. Morris answered individual questions from the audience on problems connected with the film and with various other family relations in everyday life.

"Angry Boy," as its title implies, is the story of a school-age child, Tommy Randall, who is (as one lady in the audience stated) "angry with the world."

The "anger" displayed by the boy is brought about by two major things in his life at home: (1) family tensions and (2) a domineering mother.

The family tensions grow out of a twisted and complex relationship between the mother and the father in which the mother is constantly cast as the villain, disciplining the boy and nagging in argument with the father.

This situation is further complicated by the presence of the maternal grandmother in the home. Through years of forced obedience to her own mother, Mrs. Randall has come to resent her so much that she is incapable of coping with the problems of her son and husband.

In an effort to "strike back" at his mother, Tommy falls into the habit of stealing—first it's a bracelet which belongs to his mother; then, finally, Tommy takes money from his teacher's purse in school, knowing his mother will be told about it and will be hurt.

Through a guidance center, both Mrs. Randall and Tommy are helped to understand their basic problems.

Immediately following the sound film, Dr. Morris asked for opinions on the motion picture and for questions concerning either the problem described in the movie or others in which the parents, teachers and social workers who were in attendance, might be interested.

In response to an audience question as to "why both parents were not interviewed instead of just the mother," Dr. Morris said that in most cases the father is "too busy and away from home too much" so that proper interviews cannot be arranged with him.

Dr. Morris was in agreement with the statement of one social worker in the audience who said: "I think the work would have gone a lot faster if both parents could have been interviewed regularly." In many cases, he pointed out, it is possible to use both parents and get a clearer picture of the child's trouble in a shorter period of time.

Speaking from his experience with the Easton guidance center and work with St. Christopher's hospital in Philadelphia, Dr. Morris pointed out also that the psychiatrist or clinician in charge of each case attempt to bring in as many outside "sources" as possible if these sources are directly associated with the child.

Throughout the discussion, Dr.

Four Forest Fires Brought Under Control

Fire-fighters in the county had a slightly easier time of it yesterday. Only two new fires broke out in the dry woods.

One was located near the site of the fire which had been burning yesterday north of Marshall's Creek. It started in the middle of the afternoon. The fire, still smoldering from the previous day, also came to renewed life in the brisk wind.

Fire-fighters and the district forester's men tackled both blazes, and had them knocked down last night.

Another of the fires, located near the Circle H. Ranch, between Wooddale and Brodheads Creek road, also was fanned to life a few times during the day but was knocked down by foresters.

A small blaze broke out near Pocono Mountain Inn during the day but was out before it could do much damage. Fearful of the strong wind, warden, rangers, volunteers and Buck Hill Falls Fire Co. jumped the flames with all equipment and had it extinguished in about 15 minutes.

Monomnock Introduces Novel Idea

The managing director of Monomnock Inn, Charles D. Geissinger, has come up with a novel idea which, he feels, will stimulate interest in both the Poconos and in his resort, through encouraging travel agencies to recommend Monomnock to their customers.

Through an arrangement with an Ohio "merchandise incentive specialist" company, Geissinger's resort will award a certain number of "prize points" to agents who offer the inn to their customers. An additional number of points will be given for each account which comes to the resort.

These points are, in turn, credited toward a prize which the agent or agency wishes—ranging from electric irons and radios to watches and luggage.

In connection with the drive to interest agencies more actively in Monomnock, the resort is carrying on an extensive direct mail campaign outlining the rules and purpose of the awards.

Fossa Announces Purchase Of Pocono Mountain Inn

A tentative opening date of June 14 has been set for the Pocono Mountain Inn, Cresco, by the new owner and manager, Walt Fossa.

Negotiations between Mr. Fossa and Pocono Lodges, Inc., were completed May 1 for the possession of the 75-acre resort on Route 90.

Mr. Fossa immediately made public plans to change the operating policy of the resort to accent its appeal to youth. This new policy will necessitate the closing of the famous "Rainbow Room" since Mr. Fossa feels that a public night club at a vacation resort conflicts with the normal operation of the resort.

Fossa's acquisition of the inn climaxes 22 years of direct association with the resort business. He began his career in 1930 assisting in the management of Sigamore on Twin Lakes near Milford in Pike County.

In 1946 Fossa and Ted Grant purchased the old Heinemann Farm property in Paradise. From this property they developed the successful Merry Hill Lodge.

During vacation season last year, Fossa was engaged to revive "Laurel Time" in this area, an endeavor which highlighted the entire summer season.

Fossa was reportedly considering a second such assignment on behalf of the community when he was given the opportunity to purchase Pocono Mountains Inn.

During the past decade, Fossa has served as vice-president of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau and has been a member of the board of directors, Mount Pocono Chamber of Commerce.

He is currently busy with plans to "improve and expand" the facilities at the inn.

MRS. LEAH ROSEN, one of the top designers in the ceramics field, is shown looking over some of the results of her work at Design Technics, located three miles west of Stroudsburg. The industry is operated by Mrs. Rosen and her husband, Samuel.

Rosens Start Expanding Ceramics Pottery Plant

The seventeenth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made; the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James Gaffney

One of the most unique industries in the area, yet not too widely known publicly is Design Technics, a ceramics pottery firm which has incorporated 15 years of research into the development of a product made on exclusive lines.

Located about three miles west of Stroudsburg, just off Route 209, the cement block plant is the hub of an extensive wheel of distribution. Its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Rosen have captured in their articles the finesse desired by their potential customers and are considered tops in the custom-made ceramics field.

When the Rosens moved here five years ago they entered the Stroudsburg with the intention of spending the rest of their days here devoted to their work. Coming from New York City, where they maintained a shop, their chief thought was for seclusion, since the unusual patterns utilized in their pottery required complete concentration.

Ceramic pottery, like a woman's hat, must appeal to the individual and not be expressly a mass production affair that reaches the market only to find the same style being sold over the same counter.

The designs by Mrs. Rosen, who also teaches sculpture and art in New York City's specialized public schools, vary in great degrees where effect is concerned and show specifically that the creative art is applied on every inch of the pottery.

The variations, and there are about 200 of them, help Design Technics maintain their individuality in the field and their research work, which continues daily, has perfected their production.

At present workmen are laying the foundation for an 8,000 square foot extension of the plant. The added space is necessary so the Rosens and their 12 employees may produce in greater volume, since the demand for this particular product is increasing daily. The additional building will double the capacity of the workshop and provide storage space, lacking at present.

In the near future the Rosens expect to sell their articles directly to people residing in and visiting the Stroudsburgs. Today they have a showroom at 47 E. 29th St. in New York City that employes three full time workers. Rosen explained the articles sold locally will be rejects and may be purchased for considerable saving. He emphasized they will not be pieces of "cracked pottery," since all items of this nature are discarded. The product to be sold here will be only slightly defective.

At their New York showroom lamps are finished, shades attached and various other finishing touches completed before presented to the public. Recently Rosen traveled to San Francisco where he opened up a complete department of his ceramic pottery for the nationally known home furnishing concern, Sloans. This department is stocked exclusively with pottery made here.

Most of the artistic pieces turned out here are sold to interior decorators and designers. Their line includes custom made dinner ware, lamps and all types of decorative accessories, such as vases, ash trays and a host of other articles. From the paper work, which includes all designs by Mrs. Rosen, to the actual shipping of the pottery, all work is done here at the plant.

Different types of clay are shipped here from Kentucky, Florida, Tennessee and Georgia, arriving in large bags. Taking the raw form of clay the first operation is to formulate it into a balanced mixture. This is done in large vats which later is aged from 12 hours to two weeks and pumped to the main floor where it is poured into molds. Inside the mold the water is absorbed and the clay forms a shell.

After the shell is made the product is glazed with special colors which come from practically every type metallic oxide and then the stoneware is treated, either hand carved while moist or decorated

Kiwanis Club Witnesses Health Films

Two films, "Cancer, What to Avoid" and "How to Catch a Cold" were shown at the meeting of Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at the Penn-Stroud hotel yesterday afternoon. Dr. T. I. Metzgar was the program chairman and Wilmer B. Frisbie operated the projector.

The cancer film had to do principally with quack doctors who use the disease illegally for personal gains during which it was pointed out that "100,000 are 'murdered' annually and millions of dollars" collected in fees. A warning was given to avoid the quacks and, if in doubt as to treatment, to contact county medical societies. Difficulty in prosecuting the quacks was also brought out. The film was produced by the Pennsylvania Medical Society.

The film having to do with colds was along humorous, but impressive lines. Parke W. Kunkle, vice president, presided in place of Gilbert L. Smrz, president, who is on a business trip through the South for Line Material Co. of East Stroudsburg.

Dr. W. R. Erickson furnished bouquets of flowers for the head table and Russell Harmon was welcomed back from North Carolina where he spent several months at LaBar rhododendron estates. Alan Keiper and Charles T. Miller were reported improving and A. J. Zabriske was congratulated on his birthday.

Elwood Hintze, inter-club committee chairman, announced a delegation of some 20 club members and ladies would go to Allentown tonight when Claude B. Hellmann, international president, will be a guest of the club at the Americas hotel.

Walt McClelland led the singing with Numa Snyder at the piano. Visiting Kiwanians were Earl E. Garber, Bethlehem, and S. R. Stadfield, New Haven, Conn.

Dr. Shafer Tells Eagles Of Travels

Dr. Floyd W. Shafer, Stroudsburg, gave an illustrated lecture on travels through the "lowlands" of Europe at a meeting of Stroudsburg Aerie, 1106, Fraternal Order of Eagles, this week.

Preceding Dr. Shafer's talk and showing of colored slides, the order passed on 14 applicants for membership and outlined plans for their annual Mother's Day observance this Sunday.

The observance here will be part of a nation-wide celebration by all Eagles lodges honoring mothers of the world. Such an observance was first proposed back in 1904 by Frank Hering, an Eagle, at a rally of the order memorial service in Indianapolis, Ind.

Continual promotion of the idea resulted — 12 years later — in Congressional designation of the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day.

At Ruster, president of the local lodge, said the part the Eagles played in bringing about a national observance of Mother's Day will be broadcast by Ted Malone Sunday, May 11 at 7:15 p.m. over Radio Station WVPO. The program will last 15 minutes.

Regional Meeting To Study Needs Of Neglected Children

A public "grass roots" meeting will be held in Allentown May 22 to get the views of citizens with something to say about present or future needs of dependent or neglected children.

Citizens of six counties—including Monroe—will be in attendance. The others are Berks, Carbon, Lehigh, Northampton and Schuylkill.

The meeting will be one in a series to be held throughout the State. The views expressed will be studied and collated by the Governor's Committee on Children and Youth, composed of some 50 prominent persons.

The study is being made with a view to altering, building up or deleting present services or perhaps to support new legislation.

Under study will be such things as health, education, and care of children and youths in the State. The meeting will start at 1 p. m. at the Allentown courthouse, new courtroom, and end at 5:30 p. m. The open hearing, as described by a committee spokesman, will concern the "unmet needs of dependent and neglected children."

Among those attending from Monroe County will be Mrs. T. F. Rhodes, Stroudsburg, member of the Governor's steering committee.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Spring seems to be bringing out the bright party ideas as well as the decorations for the party tables.

The hot dog roast was maybe a little premature, because I notice they went inside to finish up on marshmallows. Over the electric range they roasted them—and I'm wondering who cleaned up the burners.

That circus party in Canadensis must have been quite an affair with a real clown, and circus tents for cakes, and from the list of good things to eat which the women served the men at the work frolic at the Cherry Lane Church, I'm afraid all that good exercise isn't going to reduce their waistslines one little bit.

Mothers Day parties are blossoming all over the place and the Middle Smithfield mothers blossomed out with carnations and some of the Brownie mothers went home with pictures of their own small Brownies in Brownie made frames.

Mothers are funny people, and right now I imagine Mrs. Gearhart is more concerned with how Paul will do in the rhythm band at the Smithfield concert tonight than about how they're going to do in their own Community Concert next Monday night.

The thing most mothers are worrying about, though, is how they're ever going to live through all the extra festivities just long enough to get to Mothers Day.

Morley and Gearhart—duo-pianists

Community Concert Artists To Play For Home Folks Here

The final Community Concert of the season on Monday night at 8:15 at the auditorium of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will be of more than ordinary interest to local subscribers. It will feature Morley and Gearhart, duo-pianists, outstanding artists with Columbia artists, and friends and neighbors of the people of Monroe County.

It is as Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Gearhart, of Shawnee, where they make their home, that they are known to their friends here. They have taken a personal interest in the Pocono Community Concerts and presented an informal concert for the campaign chairmen and their committees at the dinner marking the opening of the drive last Fall.

The program committee of the Pocono Community Concert also had a personal interest in the artists and marked the coming concert as "reserved" on their schedule even before the campaign began.

Virginia Morley and Livingston Gearhart have been acclaimed by New York critics with unusual praise. An interesting feature of their career has been that they have pleased widely varied audiences—from the experts of the League of Composers, music lovers in the world's most famous concert halls, fans of Fred Waring's radio-television program where they appear as weekly guests, and patrons of such New York Niteries as the St. Regis Roof.

The Morley and Gearhart romance of marriage and music began when Virginia Morley met Livingston Gearhart while they were both scholarship students at Fontainebleau Conservatory in France. Before that she had studied privately and won the highest honors in piano and composition at Mills College, California. A scholarship made it possible for her to study under Robert Casadesu.

Livingston Gearhart first studied with his mother, a pupil of Leschetizky and later won a scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia where he studied piano, oboe and composition. In Paris he worked with Nadia Boulanger.

After their Paris debut, they gave recitals with great success throughout France, and have since crossed America on recital tours many times.

Mr. Gearhart is also a composer and has had one of his choral works performed at the Library of Congress in Washington, and a composition for the ballet was commissioned by the Paris Opera. He has written many unusual orchestral arrangements for Fred Waring and is author of a book for violin students, "Fiddle Sessions."

They have a six-year-old son, Paul, who is a student at Smithfield School.

Homemakers Rally Held At Saylorsburg

Saylorsburg—About 70 homemakers of the county gathered last Thursday at the firehall in Saylorsburg for the spring meeting of the adult home economics groups of the county of which Miss Margaret MacLaren is county leader.

Demonstrations, talks and a fashion show marked the day-long meeting during which members exhibited their projects for the year.

Mrs. Wendell Wicks, beginning what seemed to be a serious discussion of "What It Means To Be a Good Citizen" was interrupted by a number of women who apparently disagreed with her statements. After the interruptions were past of the program, they too joined in an interesting discussion followed.

The afternoon session, which followed a luncheon served by the Saylorsburg group with Mrs. Oscar Bonser as chairman, was devoted to the display of articles made during the winter months.

Mrs. Robert B. Irwin demonstrated how she had made place mats and other handwoven articles on a small loom. Mrs. Walter Herman showed articles made from raffia and pine needles.

Women who had made clothes as part of their project gave an informal fashion show.

Mrs. Andrew Ehler, of Easton, spoke on her hobbies and how they had grown until now they really were a business. She had started working with shells, making jewelry, scorecard decorations and other articles; branched out into paper mache articles for her children and neighbors; and finally added woodcarving, painting, etching, stenciling, textile painting and ceramics to her list of hand made articles. She also described stamp and doll collecting as hobbies.

Many more women joined the afternoon session and the clubs from Stroudsburg, Bossardsville, Neola, Tannersville, Appenzell, Melksell's Valley, Shawnee and Saylorsburg were represented.

Miss MacLaren outlined the plan for the women's camp this year to be held at Lake Ariel in June. Slides were shown of last year's exhibits and of the local women at camp last year.

TONIGHT PENNY SUPPER

East Stroudsburg Methodist Church Dining Room 5:30-6:45 P.M. Auspices of the YOUTH FELLOWSHIPS

Penny Supper Tonight

A penny supper will be held on Thursday from 5:30 to 6:45 p.m. in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church dining room under the auspices of the Intermediate and Senior Youth Fellowships of the church.

A recent telephone call from Miss Nellie Burd informed us of a Lutheran minister from Orlau, Poland, who had arrived in this country and was visiting with a sister in Delaware Water Gap. Miss Burd felt that the Rev. Jacob Gerhardt had a story everyone would enjoy hearing, and she suggested that he be a guest on the Wyckoff Shopper radio program.

Yesterday afternoon, I met this displaced minister for the first time. Since he speaks most fluently in German and Polish, while I speak only English, it was necessary to work through an interpreter, and Mrs. Otto Gehm of the Gap, had very kindly volunteered her services. Rev. Gerhardt's story proved, primarily, to be one of faith... like a shining light that has gloriously penetrated the dark places of despair, carrying him, through tragedy, to a new life in a free country.

Later, while attending to some of my shopping errands on the first floor, I met his wife, a smiling, pleasant-mannered woman, who replied haltingly to my greeting, "I understand you well, but speak so little, being here only three weeks."

This morning, Rev. Gerhardt and Mrs. Gehm will be heard on the Wyckoff Shopper broadcast, and I most sincerely urge all of you to listen. Rev. Gerhardt comes with a message of gratitude—for the gifts and prayers that kind-hearted Americans have sent abroad, and for the prayers that Christians the world over have voiced for the unfortunate in war-torn lands. His story is worth hearing, for it isn't until one hears how poor others can be that he appreciates his own blessings.

Here And There In Wyckoff's

For the past several days, the corridor outside the office has been jammed with packing cases as Bill Wells supervised the packing of Tony Kovaleski's antique toys, displayed here during our 77th anniversary. Now they're back in Scranton and the anniversary is only a memory. But a glorious one! ... Sorry, but the sale price prevalent during our celebration is no longer in effect. I mention this for those of you who do your shopping by mail... For those of you who may have missed yesterday's radio program, I'd like to call attention to the truly lovely, lined gabardine toppers selling for only $6.95 in deep rose, blue, yellow, and pink, sizes 12 to 18. This is one of our bell-ringing "PB" items—meaning "Price Buys"... Maybe I'm a Johnny One-Note, but that one note is DOUGH—Easy Dough for our second auction this Friday night at 7:50. Coming?

Brownies Honor Mothers At First Troop "Fly-Up"

A Mother's Day program was combined with a Brownie "Fly-up" for Troop 22, East Stroudsburg Brownies, at their meeting yesterday afternoon at Grace Lutheran Church.

It was the first fly-up for the comparatively new troop, and the new Girl Scouts received their wings from the Brownie leaders, and their Girl Scout pin from Mrs. Sarah Bard, their new leader.

A group of five Brownies told the Brownie story before welcoming into their troop a new Brownie, Tara Miah, who received her Brownie pin from Mrs. Ellsweig.

The entertainment included a minuet danced by 8 Brownies, a piano solo by Evelyn Hennet, and songs sung by the whole troop.

Refreshments were served at a table decorated by the children themselves, with hand decorated napkins and candy cups in the shape of spring bonnets. Each Brownie presented her mother with a gift—a snapshot of the Brownie, herself in a frame she had made.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Harry Schaeffer felt the razor-sharp edge of the pruning shears, as wielded by Manager Casey Stengel, and the lanky southpaw was shuffled off to Kansas City by the New York Yankees, the same club that sent out all sorts of rave notices about the former hurler with the Stroudsburg Poconos less than a month ago. Time and tide wait for no man, and when a pitcher doesn't pitch he can't win and when he doesn't win he isn't wanted—and so ends the saga of Harry Schaeffer and the New York Yankees, at least for a time.

There isn't a doubt in my mind that the popular graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will be back in the Stadium, and I will be disappointed if it isn't some time during the coming campaign. Even if he doesn't return this season, it is almost a certainty that Harry will be with the Yankees in training camp next February. Harry's work during the past training grind was outstanding, as stated by both Stengel and the New York press on many occasions.

The all-powerful Yankees sent "Ish" against the Dodgers in the first game of the City Series and with knees knocking and visibly nervous over his initial big chance in the spacious Stadium, the Dodgers scored five times in five innings and treated Harry rougher than any club had until that time. However, a bit of high school infield play by Jim Briedweiser at second base, a lead throw by catcher Charley Silvera and a long fly to center that should have been caught, but fell for a triple, proved costly to the New York cause, although Schaeffer's wildness was another major factor in his downfall.

Since that date, Saturday, April 12, Schaeffer has been the batting practice hurler or an occasional visitor to the Yankees' bull pen. One poor game all Spring and the young southpaw had a ticket made out in his name for Kansas City, although the actual departure was held up until Tuesday night. How quick the New York brain trust forgot the seven-inning one-hitter against the Detroit Tigers and other outstanding shorter appearances against the Boston Red Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Harry was so good in the South that he was the first pitcher to work on the club's return to New York. There is undoubtedly reason for sending Harry to Kansas City, one that this writer will probably never be able to discover. However, I believe it safe to bet that the money angle figures very prominently in Schaeffer's shuffle off to Kansas City.

Those who have followed Harry's career and that of the now defunct Stroudsburg Poconos will recall that the left handed tosser was plucked from the Stroudsburg club for $100 by the Yankees at the end of the 1947 season, during which campaign the Poconos had a working agreement with the New York club. On the other hand, Bill Miller cost the Yankees at least $20,000, when purchased from Syracuse last season. The added price tag on Miller guarantees the kid a better shake than Schaeffer.

Prior to last Sunday Harry definitely had the edge on his southpaw rival, but Miller came up with a well pitched game against the Chicago White Sox. Soon after that contest, Schaeffer was sent to the American Association. However, the part that makes this writer fairly sure is the fact that Miller, who was certainly not the slightest bit impressive in his earlier start against the A's and had to be relieved in the third inning, received two chances to make good during the regular season, while Schaeffer wasn't even given a single relief assignment, not to mention a starting spot.

The Yankees are finding the going a little tougher than usual at this time of year at present and it may develop that Schaeffer and other young stars in the minor leagues will be brought up sooner than we think. However, New York pitchers face the task of beating out members already on the staff, not to mention "Whitey" Ford, who undoubtedly will be back in harness next season.

Whether the Yankees had reasons for sending Schaeffer to Kansas City, and they probably did, or not, the fact remains that the greatest hurler in the business can't win a place for himself on the lowest of minor league clubs without doing some pitching. From this angle, Schaeffer's option to Kansas City was one of the cruelest moves ever made by a baseball team, major or minor league.

Rider College Net Squad Gains Verdict Over Warriors

Trenton—Rider College inflicted a convincing 7-2 setback on East Stroudsburg State Teachers College in tennis yesterday, here on the winning contingent's home courts. The visiting Warriors picked up one victory in the singles and the same number in the doubles divisions.

Rider jumped off in winning style as Ed Torres took the measure of Al Malik, 6-4 and 6-2. However, Bill Schmidt gave the Warriors their only singles victory in the next match, when the visiting star won over Joe Stanko, 6-4, 1-6 and 6-4. However, the remainder of the singles action was all in favor of Rider.

Charley "Bud" Wilson, ESSTC, fell before John Korochinski, 3-6, 8-10, while Bob Garrett, of the visiting forces, took it on the chin at the hands of Ray Richter, 5-7, 6-2 and 6-8. Rider's Ralph Pearce won over Joe Maiorillo, 1-6, 6-3 and 6-4, while the home team's Charley Golander was too much for Jack McAndrews in the final singles event, 6-1 and 6-2.

Doubles
Malik and Garrett teamed together to score the only ESSTC win in the doubles, as the visiting twosome won over Korochinski and Pearce, 6-4, 2-6 and 6-3. However, Rider's Stanko and Torres combined to down Schmidt and Wilson, 6-3, 2-6 and 6-3. Golander and Tom Kolo were too much for McAndrews and Maiorillo in the final doubles encounter, 1-6, 6-4 and 6-3.

The unfinished match between the two teams on the Normal Hill courts recently goes into the books as rained out, as the two schools were unable to complete the action yesterday.

Bowlers Register
Twenty mixed double teams registered for the mixed doubles tournament to be staged at Harmon's Recreation next Wednesday, last night. The action is scheduled to get underway at 8 p.m. next Wednesday.

Davey Proves Vejar's Master In Chicago Ring

Chicago, (AP)—Undefeated "Chuck" Davey, scoring four spectacular knockdowns, last night easily defeated "Chico" Vejar with harpooning lefts to the face and stomach in their ten round welterweight battle in Chicago Stadium.

The decision of the two judges and Referee Frank Sikora was unanimous. Making an astonishing whirlwind finish, Vejar was credited with winning only the tenth round. The second and the ninth were declared even.

Davey, fancy boxing southpaw, outsmarted and outmaneuvered the New York University dramatic arts freshman, by his savage two-fisted attack to the head and body.

Contention
The victory moved Davey, unbeaten in 33 bouts, into contention as the foremost challenger of Cuban Kid Gavilan's welterweight championship.

Davey, holder of a master's degree from Michigan State College, scored two knockdowns in the first round, one in the sixth, and another in the seventh.

Davey was complete master of the 20-year-old Stamford, Conn., youth in all but three rounds. After breaking even in the second and ninth rounds, "Chico" staged a stirring rally to win the tenth round.

Vejar, who had never fought a southpaw, was unable to fathom Davey's bewildering stance and was an easy target for stabbing right jabs and left crosses.

The defeat was only Vejar's second in 43 fights. He had scored 24 knockouts.

The bout, which was nationally televised and radio-cast, drew a paid attendance of 8,773 persons and gross receipts of $41,603. The net receipts were $32,002. Vejar was guaranteed 25 per cent of the receipts, and Davey 20 per cent. Each also received $1,500 from radio and television rights.

Rider Inflicts First Loss Of Season On ESSTC

Werkheiser Blasts Fourth Home Run

Trenton—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College went down to its initial baseball defeat of the season here yesterday, despite another display of batting power by Jimmy Werkheiser, as Rider College scored an 11-7 decision over the visiting Warriors.

These same two rivals fought to a 3-3 tie in an earlier meeting on the Normal Hill field this season.

Rider blasted Bob Mellman for six runs in the first two innings, three in each frame, but the spirited charges of Coach George Ockershausen roared back into contention with five markers in the top of the third frame.

However, the home team increased its lead to a safe margin by scoring once in the fourth, three times in the fifth and another singleton in the seventh.

The fifth inning rally chased Mellman from the hill and brought Bill "Lefty" Herring to his rescue. Lloyd Woodling worked the seventh and eighth rounds for the Warriors and was touched for a single run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Big Blows
Werkheiser lashed out his fourth home run in six games as the first batter in the ninth frame. The drive carried 385 feet into left, center field, where the spirited second sacker had lashed a booming triple in the third inning.

Harold Sisco banked out three hits and Gerald Murray joined Werkheiser in the two-hit class, as the Warriors outlast Rider, 13-9. However, the visiting defense proved weaker, committing six bobbles in the field to four for the Trenton contingent.

Kenneth Minschwaner, a junior southpaw, worked the distance on the hill for the victorious home team, although hit hard throughout the contest. Minschwaner, who now has a record of 14 wins and four setbacks since entering Rider, also led the winning attack at the plate with three of the club's nine hits.

Prior to yesterday's setback, the Warriors had taken the measure of Kutztown, Panzer, St. Peter's and the University of Scranton, in addition to battling Rider to a 3-3 deadlock.

New York, (AP)—The Cleveland Indians made it two straight over New York yesterday as Mike Garcia scattered 12 Yankee hits for a 7-2 triumph, the Tribe's fourth in a row. The victory kept the Indians a game behind the league-leading Boston Red Sox.

Extra Bases

The Indians made 11 safeties off three Yankee hurlers but three went for extra bases, a home run by Al Rosen and back to back doubles by Luke Easter and Dale Mitchell. On the other hand, the light-hitting Yanks collected only a pair of two-baggers among their dozen base hits and both were tainted.

Shawnee Course To Feature New Look For Annual Invitation Golf Tournament Action

Shawnee-on-Deleware — The 29th annual Shawnee Invitation Golf Tournament will be played at Shawnee Inn and Country Club here July 10, 11, 12 and 13. It was announced by Harry Obitz, who is starting his seventh season as head professional at Fred Waring's Pocomo Mountain resort.

It is the fourth year of the tournament since it was renewed in 1949 after a lapse of 11-years. Started in 1912 the tournament continued annually until 1938. Ed Meister of Cleveland, won the event in both 1949 and 1950. Tom Robbins, Rye, N.Y., won the title last year.

The 6,686-yard par-72 championship course has undergone several changes since last season, particularly on the second, 14th, and 17th holes. A new tee, planting, and a change of contour has added more hazards to the 510-yard, par-five second. A new green has been added to the 14th, which in the future will be a par five dog-leg to the left instead of a par-four straightaway. To compensate for the change on the 14th, the 17th, with a new tee, has been made into a par-five. Other minor changes also have been made on the championship layout.

Flights

Every player who participates in the qualifying round of the invitation is assured of a place in one of the prize winning flights. Each flight winner and runner-up will earn a trophy. Play is limited to one 18-hole match per day.

The Shawnee Invitational traditionally attracts one of the finest fields of golfers in the country.

Head pro Harry Obitz has drawn up a large program of events for the entire season. Shawnee's famous golf clinic "The Swing is the Thing," directed by Obitz and including his staff of assistants, again will be a Sunday afternoon feature at Shawnee. Jack Ryan, head pro at the Ponce de Leon Golf Club, St. Augustine, Fla., in the winter season; Dick Farley, former intercollegiate champion from Los Angeles, who assisted Ryan at Ponce de Leon; John Bove, head pro at Mid-Pines, North Carolina, in the winter; and Frank Munch, Sacramento, Calif., all have returned as assistants to Obitz at Shawnee.

Boston Rookie Lands Fourth Pitching Victory

Boston, (AP)—Rookie southpaw Bill Henry chalked up his fourth straight pitching victory by hand-cuffing the Chicago White Sox to five hits yesterday as the Boston Red Sox swept the two-game series with a 7-2 decision.

That unbeaten youngster helped his own cause tremendously by banging a three-bagger and a single as three Chicago hurlers were slammed for nine hits. Henry's blows drove in two runs.

Cinch Matters

The Red Sox clinched matters against righthander Ken Holcombe

in the second inning by setting off a four-run explosion that was powered by Johnny Pesky's bases-loaded smash that bounced into the right field stands for a ground-rule double.

M. Smithfield Trips Portland

Middle Smithfield — Middle Smithfield school scored in every inning to take the measure of Portland in a baseball game on Tuesday, 6-2, here on the winning team's home grounds.

The winning aggregation scored its six runs on an even dozen hits, while Bob Ace tossed a crafty six-hitter against the Portland contingent.

Big Guns

Art Booth and Ace led the winning attack, the former banging out a pair of lusty doubles and the pitcher joining in with one twoply wallop.

Ellender Sees Possibility Of Dixie Revolt

Washington (AP)—Senator Ellender (D-La.) said yesterday he is confident some southerner will lead a Dixie Revolt if the Democrats nominate a presidential candidate committed to "an obnoxious civil rights program."

Ellender told a reporter he still has high hopes Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia will head such a rebellion if the Democratic National Convention "tries to make us take a man and a platform unacceptable to the South."

Fifth Atomic Bomb Of New Series Set Off

Las Vegas, Nev., (AP)—Atomic scientists switched back to a brilliant shot in the dark from a 300-foot tower in Yucca Flat yesterday. It outlined buildings here 75 miles away.

The flash, occurring at 5:15 a.m., Pacific Daylight Time (8:15 a.m., EDT), appeared as a quick blink in the predawn sky in Los Angeles, 250 miles away.

The explosion was not felt or heard in downtown Las Vegas, but the communities of Caliente, Nev., and St. George, Utah, about 125 and 175 miles northeast of the test site, got the concussion. It was not felt as strongly as some previous blasts, however.

No damage was reported.

The white flash was followed by the usual red fireball lasting several seconds. The atomic cloud became visible in the early morning light in Las Vegas, but its quick disappearance indicated this was not one of the bigger shots.

It was the first darkness test since the first five experiments at the Nevada proving grounds in early 1951. It also was the first tower detonation in the current spring series.

Troops were not involved in this test, but another Army maneuver is scheduled tentatively for next week. A group of 1,500 soldiers is being readied at nearby Camp Desert Rock for atomic foxhole duty.

Yesterday's test—the fifth in this series, the 17th in Nevada, and the United States' 29th—indicated Atomic Energy Commission scientists were working with a smaller, more controllable device.

There are about 675,000 living species of insects.

No Hike In Automobile Rates Likely

Harrisburg (AP)—The State Insurance Department said yesterday that no increase in automobile insurance rates is in prospect in Pennsylvania despite indications of a boost across the nation.

In New York, a spokesman for the nation's casualty insurance companies said they will seek a "substantial increase" in automobile liability and property damage rates this year.

Asked about the Pennsylvania situation, Ralph H. Alexander, deputy insurance commissioner, said the department has no present plans to boost auto insurance rates.

Britain's National Health Program Appears Permanent, Regardless Of Ruling Party

Editor's Note: Following is the 33rd in a series of reports from Britain and Europe by Ruth Haller Ottaway, writer of Journalist and Traveler and her reports from abroad in recent years have received a favorable reception by Record readers.

By Ruth Haller Ottaway

London—Prepared with the usual tickets for "the Stranger's Gallery," we were driven by the old "cabby" through gusts of falling snow and the largest flakes we had ever beheld. No British panegyrics on the "Sweet Winds of Spring" today. Up the Mall, past the Queen's former home, Clarence House, and Queen Mary's dwelling, Marlborough House with the flag flying to indicate her presence; past that formidable pile of stone, Buckingham Palace, we wended our way to the British House of Commons.

Mrs. Ottaway

Among those fascinated by British pomp, ceremony and ancient gold coaches, we were, nevertheless, suddenly filled with mirth when the little procession of the speaker of the House and his several minions, all be-wigged, the foremost bearing the huge and richly chased mace, symbol of authority, preceded us into the House of Commons. With American independence we inwardly snorted (to be sure in a most cultivated manner, when we visitors were kept waiting in a herd on the stairs until a voice announced, "The speaker is seated.") The great mace also was stilted in its accustomed place like a large, golden cob of corn on its standard. Then we were permitted to enter and be seated.

The preceding day until 3 a.m. the Commons had had a tumultuous session on the national health bill. In short, the 400 million pounds ($1,120,000,000) ceiling for the annual cost under the Labour Government was being met by more charges. Even the Labour Government had been forced to make a charge for glasses and dentures. Now there is to be a one pound ($2.80) charge for dental treatment (no charge of any kind for children under 16, and the indigent), a charge for surgical boots and supports, elastic hosiery and wigs!

The grant for the underpaid doctors in the health plan of ten million pounds ($28,000,000) more a year and back pay of 40 million pounds ($112,000,000) caused the greatest protest.

Ninety per cent of the cost of the national health plan is paid from taxes. The employee, as in the U. S., pays half of the social security tax. Nine shillings, 5 pence ($1.32) is paid weekly for each employed man, the man paying 5 shillings, 1 pence ($3.71), and of the total cost only 10 pence ($1.32) goes toward the health program. Past reports have shown that mortality of children under 16 has been reduced one-half. Irrespective of the party in power, the national health program is here to stay.

All that "Battling Bessie Bradford, member of Parliament" wanted to do was to correct a misquotation from her speech. At 9:30 a.m. she had waited seven hours to catch the eye of the speaker (a long time for a woman to wait to catch the eye of a mere man). When ordered to be seated, she refused, then declined to leave the chamber when so admonished, whereupon she was suspended. Cries of "shame," "shame" rose from the Labour benches. It was the first suspension of a woman.

The speaker's acceptance of the motion of closure for the debate stung the opposition into clamor.

replied, "your trade unions do not allow Communist members, that the trade unions are the main support of the Labour Party and of Mr. Attlee. Therefore Mr. Attlee cannot be a supporter of Stalin." So the extreme conservatives badger the extreme leftists in England just as in the United States, and our extreme Socialists join the merry-go-round against our despairing reactionaries.

But Sir Waldron Smithers is a gay and generous man who welcomed us not as "bally" Americans, but as friends. His parting words were: "A pity that you are leaving England so soon. You should see Kent. I believe that a delightful meeting like this is never an accident. When you come again, do give me a tinkle."

U.S. Rules Out Further Concessions To Red Truce Negotiators

Bombing Of China Under Consideration

Washington (AP) — President Truman put the stamp of finality on the United Nations stand in Korean truce negotiations yesterday with an assertion that "we will not buy an armistice by turning over human beings for slaughter or slavery."

His formal pronouncement was the climax of a series of official American statements on the issue, all aimed at making clear to the Communists and to the world in general that there will be no more concessions.

The President followed up statements from:

One—Deputy Defense Secretary William C. Foster who told newsmen that the package deal offered to the Reds in Korea was "final" but not an "ultimatum." He confirmed that a naval blockade of Communist China and direct attack on the Chinese mainland have been considered among actions that might be taken in event of a final breakdown of truce talks.

Two—Secretary of State Dean Acheson who described the Communist-rejected formula as "fair and reasonable" and told a news conference that if the Communists really wanted a truce they would accept.

As proposed by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway—and turned down by the Reds—the offer was to get all the remaining truce obstacles out of the way by (A) allowing the Reds to repair and build North Korean air fields, (B) throwing out the Communist proposal to bring in Russia as a "neutral" nation to help police a truce and (C) dropping the Red demand for repatriation of all prisoners of war whether they want to go back to their own lines or not.

The last item in that list is the one on which the United States took its firm stand.

"The three parts of Gen. Ridgway's proposal are all parts of a whole," President Truman said. "They must be considered as an entity—not piecemeal. Our agreement is contingent upon acceptance of the whole proposal. This is our position."

"The Communists thus far have indicated only a willingness to withdraw their proposal that the USSR be a member of the neutral inspection commission. This spurious issue was raised by them late in negotiations and its withdrawal is no real concession on their part."

State Income Running Ahead Of Expenses

Harrisburg (AP)—Commonwealth income currently is running about 30 million dollars ahead of expectations, a fiscal survey showed yesterday.

But State budget officials warned that strikes or other industrial disturbances could change the picture very quickly.

On the basis of present revenue returns, the Commonwealth may wind up the first half of the 1951-53 biennium about 30 millions over estimated receipts.

General fund tax collections as of April 30 were listed at $343,365,445 against an estimate of $337,358,724. Delinquent tax payments from truck and bus companies totaled about 7 million and another five millions in unrecorded corporate tax revenues, brings general fund surplus income for the 11-month period to about 18 millions.

To add to this surplus amount, the State Revenue Department has reported that motor fund revenues are about $13,600,000 ahead of estimates. This makes an indicated surplus of around 30 millions.

Whether this high revenue rate will continue depends largely on industrial activity for the remainder of the biennium, said Dr. Edward B. Logan, state budget secretary.

Is Brassiere Work Of Art?

Karlsruhe, Germany (AP)—Is a brassiere a work of art? A manufacturer who thinks it is was told by a judge yesterday that "only its contents may be art, but not the product itself."

Therefore, the judge ruled, the manufacturer cannot claim a rival firm had violated the "art protection law" by producing a bra similar to the model of his firm.

For almost a year, a court dispute on bras has been going on between the Felina firm of Mannheim and the Triumph firm of Heubach.

Vandenberg Predicts Russia Will Be Ready To Launch Atom-Bomb Attack By 1954

Washington (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, arguing against a cut in military funds, said yesterday that by 1954 Russia will have the means of launching a long-range atomic attack against the United States.

The Air Force chief of staff said:

"Unless effectively opposed and countered, this attack could neutralize our own ability to retaliate and at the same time could seriously cripple certain key centers of the industrial productivity upon which we depend for ultimate victory in war," he said.

His statement was read to a closed session of a Senate armed services subcommittee by his vice chief of staff, Gen. Nathan F.

Twining, and made available to the press. Vandenberg himself entered a hospital for an exploratory operation to find the source of severe abdominal pain.

Later a Pentagon spokesman described the operation as "serious."

Secretary of Air Finletter told reporters that the air chief's surgeon had told him Vandenberg withstood the operation well, and was resting comfortably.

The House has cut the military budget for the coming fiscal year by 4½ billion dollars and voted to limit actual military spending to 46 billion, some six billion under administration plans.

Now the Senate subcommittee is studying the defense requests.

Ridgway Offers Final Deal For Armistice, Invites Reds To Watch Screening Of POW's

Munsan, Korea, (AP)—Korean truce talks—verging on collapse after Red rejection of the Allies' final compromise offer—continued at Communist request today. The outlook is dark.

The Reds gave no reason in asking for another top-level session at Panmunjom with the shroud of secrecy removed.

The full-dress session lasted 18 minutes. Negotiators agreed to meet again tomorrow.

Secret negotiations broke down Wednesday over the key issue of prisoner exchange.

The United Nations Command, declaring it never would force prisoners to return to Red soil against their will, said bluntly that further debate was pointless and called for an indefinite recess.

The Communists then asked that the delegates meet again.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, on instructions from Washington, had presented this "final, clear and irrevocable" package proposal for a settlement:

One—The 70,000 Chinese and North Korean soldiers who want to return to Red rule would be exchanged for the 12,000 Allied prisoners in Red hands. The remaining 57,699 prisoners who refuse repatriation would again be asked "by any suitable international body or joint Red Cross teams" if they still would forcibly oppose being returned to the Communists. The Reds could watch that screening.

Two—The Allies would drop their objections to repair and construction of airfields in North Korea during a truce.

Three—The Communists would withdraw their nomination of Russia as a neutral armistice supervisor.

Jay Cooke Comes Out In Support Of Eisenhower

Philadelphia (AP)—Jay Cooke, a Pennsylvania Republican political leader long associated with the conservative elements of the party, yesterday announced he will support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination.

Cooke, who was backed by former U. S. Sen. Joseph Grundy and lost the Pennsylvania Republican gubernatorial nomination to present Gov. John S. Fine in 1950, said he thought Eisenhower was best equipped to attract the independent voter.

"I wish to win next November," he continued, "and to do so we must attract to the support of our Republican candidate both independent and Democratic voters, because the registration, particularly in the large cities and the so-called Solid South is predominantly Democratic."

"In my judgment, Gen. Eisenhower is the candidate best equipped to attract this support."

Kefauver, Taft Take Over Lead In Delegates; Both Predict Victory At Chicago Conventions

By The Associated Press
Tennessee's Estes Kefauver and Ohio's Robert A. Taft swept into the lead in the nation-wide races for delegates yesterday and both promptly posted claims of virtually certain victory at the Chicago presidential nominating conventions in July.

Kefauver said that on the basis of a striking upset in Ohio—and a strong but losing display in Florida—he is now "practically assured" of winning the Democratic nomination.

Taft told newsmen he will "never be headed" in his bid for the Republican prize.

Registering a landslide victory in his native Ohio, Taft surged well in front of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the battle for delegates by capturing the state's entire 56-vote delegation.

His opponent, former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, scored a blank. Eisenhower was not entered in the contest, though most of Stassen's delegate candidates had promised to turn to the general as their second choice at Chicago.

The latest Associated Press tabulation—based on the known alignment of delegates chosen so far—showed the front-running candidates in this order:

Republicans—Taft 332, Eisenhower 286, Stassen 23. Taft himself claims over 400.

Democrats—Kefauver 104½, foreign aid chief W. Averell Harriman 93½, Sen. Richard B. Russell 41½.

Nomination requires 604 GOP votes, 616 Democratic votes.

Kefauver suffered a 50,000-vote defeat at the hands of Georgia's Sen. Russell in Florida—the South's only "popularity" primary

Oil Workers Reject Plea To End Strike

Denver (AP)—The nationwide oil strike will continue, O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Workers' International Union, CIO said yesterday, adding that the union will attend a Wage Stabilization Board meeting May 13 as requested.

Knight, in a press conference, read a lengthy telegram to Nathan Feinsinger, WSB chairman.

"In light of the history of the dispute and the WSB's apparent inability to affect industry participation in WSB hearings we have no alternative but to continue our strike," he said.

Knight, in his telegram, said the dispute dates back to September, 1951, and said that three times the strike has been postponed.

He said the strike actually went into effect almost two months after its original effective date.

"We have patiently attempted to achieve peaceful settlement but to no avail. We have been finally forced to strike and we must continue striking until settlements are reached."

In Washington, the wage board put off, at least until today any decision regarding the oil dispute.

However, WSB Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger told the House Labor Committee yesterday that if the board fails to obtain an end to the strike, it would probably send the dispute back to the White House.

James K. Knudson, defense transport administrator, told newsmen in the capital a prolonged strike would create serious problems and it may become necessary to clamp some restrictions on civilian transport.

Knudson said, however, that he does not believe it will be necessary to ration gasoline and oil as was done in World War Two.

Among possible restrictions, he cited measures to allocate supplies and steps to minimize empty trucking operations.

Fleischmann Resigns As DPA Chief

Washington (AP)—President Truman yesterday accepted with "great reluctance" the resignation of Manly Fleischmann as defense production administrator.

The President immediately asked the Senate to approve Henry H. Fowler as Fleischmann's successor in DPA. Fowler at present is Fleischmann's top lieutenant, his title being administrator of the National Production Authority.

The President in effect merged the two offices by asking Fowler to keep his old post as well as fill Fleischmann's.

The proposed change of command appeared to indicate little, if any, change in the policies of DPA, which controls the nation's industrial output and parcels out scarce materials, to meet defense requirements.

Fleischmann asked to be relieved by June 1. He told a reporter this week he plans to return to private business after a spell of "looking at the waves." Fleischmann is a Buffalo, N. Y., lawyer.

Fowler, a native of Roanoke, Va., is a lawyer whose private practice has been in Washington, D. C.

Tells Of Missiles

London (AP)—Guided missiles in the immediate future will surpass present methods of anti-aircraft gunnery, Minister of Supply Duncan Sandys told a meeting of British engineers yesterday.

election—but kept his prestige high with a banner showing in Ohio.

In other political developments: Michael V. DiSalle, the Truman administration's former price boss, won the nomination for U.S. senator in Ohio in his bid to unseat Republican Sen. John Bricker. They will clash head-on in November.

Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, 69-year-old former secretary of war and ambassador to China, won a third shot at a seat in the U.S. Senate. The outcome of Tuesday's New Mexico primary will send him against Democratic Sen. Dennis Chavez, who defeated him in 1946. Hurley is a Republican.

In Alabama, returns of Tuesday's primary indicated a sharp battle between Kefauver and Russell for the state's 22 delegate votes.

Government Suspends Federal Restrictions On Installment Buying

Regulation W Dropped For Credit Sales

Washington (AP)—Controls over installment buying were suspended yesterday because the government decided inflationary dangers have eased off.

For the consumer, the decision means no government requirements as to down payments or time to pay for automobiles, furniture, radio and television sets, and scores of other items.

Many authorities said the result would be a trend toward small down payments and more time to pay. Dealers and finance companies still may impose their own terms, in the absence of government regulations.

Industry hoped for an immediate boost in sales, which have been lagging in some fields. But some officials said they thought the stimulant would be slight, and perhaps only temporary.

The Federal Reserve Board's Regulation "W" has required a one-third down payment on automobiles and 15 per cent down on most other items, with 18 months to pay.

The board said it had decided unanimously to suspend the regulation after "a careful review of developments in the economy generally and in the markets directly affected."

The board urged Congress to extend its control powers, now due to expire June 30, so the installment buying curbs can be imposed again if needed in any new inflationary upsurge.

Yesterday's action was another in a series of steps in which the government has noted a lessening of inflationary threats.

Foreign Aid Bill Advances

Washington (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday unanimously approved a $6,889,100,000 foreign aid bill which includes Spain for the first time.

The approved bill was cut by $1,010,900,000 from the $7,900,000,000 originally requested by President Truman, with all of the reductions taken from funds earmarked for Europe.

This leaves a total authorization of 4½ billion dollars for military assistance abroad—mostly guns and other war equipment—for the year ending June 30, 1953.

In addition to this, the committee voted to give military officials the authority to transfer one billion dollars worth of equipment from American stocks to foreign allies if the need arises.

Mayor Loses Race To Remove Grave Marker

Tombstone, Ariz. (AP)—A souvenir hunter apparently beat Mayor Wally C. Foster to the draw in taking down the famed "he done his damndest" grave marker in Boothill Cemetery.

Foster disclosed yesterday that he went to the cemetery Sunday to remove the disputed marker only to find that it had been taken away Saturday night.

"I guess a souvenir hunter got it," Foster said.

The marker reading, "Jack Williams. He done his damndest," was put on an unmarked grave in the famous old burial grounds a few years ago after President Truman referred to it in a campaign speech. The President recently said in a press conference that he wanted to be remembered in the manner of that epitaph.

Unions Fight Rail Seizure

Washington (AP)—Three big railroad operating unions said yesterday they will ask the Supreme Court to rule on the government's seizure of railroads at the same time it rules on President Truman's seizure of the steel industry.

The court has scheduled arguments for next Monday on Judge David A. Pine's decision that seizure of the steel mills on April 8 was illegal and unconstitutional.

Attorneys for the three brotherhoods—the engineers, conductors and firemen—said in a statement here they have filed notice of appeal with the U.S. Appeals Court in Cincinnati, challenging a no-strike order issued by the U.S. District Court in Cleveland April 23.

That order prohibits an estimated 150,000 members of the three unions from striking. The roads were taken over by the government in 1950 to avert a threatened strike by two of the four operating unions.

Dilworth Assails McGranery As Petty Politician

Washington (AP)—Dist. Atty. Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia denounced Federal Judge James P. McGranery as "fundamentally a small-time politician" at a Senate hearing yesterday in challenging McGranery's fitness to become attorney general of the United States.

Dilworth told newsmen that was the gist of his testimony at a closed-door session of the Senate Judiciary Committee which is weighing President Truman's nomination of McGranery for the No. 1 Justice Department post. The President named McGranery to succeed J. Howard McGrath after McGrath fired Newbold Morris as federal anti-corruption chief on April 3.

Marine Reserves May Now Resign

Washington (AP)—The Marine Corps announced yesterday 38,000 organized and inactive reservists can resign or request discharge.

The new policy affects only reservists who served on active duty before June 24, 1948, and were recalled to active duty after the Korean War started.

The policy doesn't affect the current tour of duty. It will apply to them when they are released from active duty, however, if they served on active duty before June 24, 1948.

Rice Purchases Illegal

Washington (AP)—A government investigator said yesterday that 35 per cent of the rice the Commodity Credit Corp. bought for $2,700,000 in 1949 was ineligible for government price support.

Gross Testifies To $15,000 Political Shakedown By Moran, O'Dwyer Pal, In 1949

New York (AP)—Bookie king Harry Gross testified yesterday he was shaken down for a $15,000 political contribution during the 1949 campaign of former Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Gross said he paid the money to O'Dwyer's pal, James J. Moran, a top office holder throughout that Democratic city administration. There was no clue as to what Moran did with the money.

Moran is now serving 12½ to 28 years in prison for a shakedown of fuel oil installers when he was O'Dwyer's first deputy fire commissioner.

Gross, finally talking, also claimed to have made graft payments to police Inspector William P. O'Brien, who later became O'Dwyer's hand-picked police commissioner.

Gross electrified a departmental trial of five policemen, allegedly mixed up in Gross' protection payoffs, when he mentioned Moran's name in connection with a police department matter.

"Had you known Moran previously?" asked Victor J. Herwitz, lawyer for the city.

Gross then related that he gave Moran a $5,000 political contribution during O'Dwyer's first mayoralty campaign in 1945. The bookie did not indicate whether he volunteered this offering.

Four years later, Gross went on. Moran demanded $17,000 from him for each of the 27 horse betting rooms he was operating at the time.

"They wanted it that way but we settled for a little cheaper," the flashy gambler testified. "We settled for $15,000."

Bucknell Man Electrocuted

Lewisburg (AP)—A Bucknell University student was electrocuted last night as he was helping to install a television antenna.

Frank John Pilarek, 25, of Nanticoke, was instantly killed when a strong wind blew the antenna's lead-in wire against a high tension line carrying 12,000 volts. Pilarek was holding a guy wire on the ground at Bucknell Village, a housing development on the outskirts of Lewisburg.

An afternoon performance, scheduled for 2:30, will be presented for students and at 8 p.m. another presentation will be made for the general public.

Sponsored by the Senior Tri-Hi-Y, the production is under the direction of Miss Florence Grimm, home economics instructor at the school and a former May Queen. All students of the first six grades of the school will participate in the various dances and musical numbers.

Following the coronation, the grade school pupils will entertain the newly-crowned Queen in a program of songs and dances. Theme of this year's fete is "Children Honor The Queen," a simple portrayal of the May Day custom in song and dance.

The narrative was written by Miss Grimm. Sandra Rohrbacher and Stephen Luckey will be the narrators. Dances were taught by the girls of the junior class and the musical portion of the program is under the direction of Harold Wild.

The day's festivities will be climaxed with a semi-formal dance in the auditorium immediately following the night's performance.

Heeter Youth Pulls Boy From Water In Baltimore

The 14-year-old son of former local couple is credited by authorities in Baltimore, Md., with playing an important role in attempting to save the life of a drowning boy Sunday.

Robert Heeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Heeter received the plaudits of press and radio for his part in rescuing a six-year-old boy who fell from a river's bank into 15 feet of water.

Swimming to the child's side, young Heeter brought him to shore and stood by while artificial respiration was applied by Baltimore firemen. A 10-year-old companion of the boy rescued by young Heeter drowned in the same spot while the former East Stroudsburg youth was rescuing his friend. Police and firemen dragged the river's bottom for some time before recovering his body.

Later Sunday night the child rescued by Heeter died in a Baltimore hospital. Word of the heroic attempt was relayed to Mrs. Cora Hendershot, 821 Monroe St., Stroudsburg, by young Heeter's mother, the former Gladys Snyder, daughter of Mrs. A. M. Snyder.

How to Go Broke

Two items from Harrisburg caught our eye the other day. We list them here as a perfect example of what goes on when government gets too big, too expensive and too careless.

One concerned the General State Authority, a device for evading the state debt limit by borrowing money to build institutions, then renting them to the state until the debt is repaid.

The present Authority was created by the 1949 Legislature and authorized to borrow $175 millions. The 1951 Legislature upped the limit to $235 millions.

Now, state agencies are pouring in requests for new buildings. Among them is the Welfare Department, which wants $51,842,425 worth.

That brings us to the second item, which concerns a new building at the Danville State Mental Hospital, administered by the same Welfare Department.

The new building was built by the same General State Authority. It cost $1,500,000 and was finished more than a year ago. It is fully equipped at a cost of $100,000 and it has enough space and facilities to relieve overcrowding at the hospital and provide treatment.

But the new building isn't being used because last year's State Legislature failed to provide the $190,000 needed for a staff of doctors, nurses and other attendants.

The Legislature was in session for a year and had plenty of time to consider wrinkles like this. It apparently had plenty of money, too, for it passed a batch of new taxes and approved a two-year budget in the neighborhood of $1,300,000,000.

Our brand-new building at Danville lies idle and we're paying the interest on the money we borrowed to build it. The sick get no benefit from it, and neither do we.

With this monument to inefficiency in mind, wouldn't it be a good idea to hold up future construction programs until we find out whether we can use the things we build?

Beware of Hitchhikers

State and city police, automobile clubs and national associations, the press and countless other representatives of the public have warned for many years about the hazard inherent in picking up the knights of the road who seek to travel with a wave of the thumb.

This hazard was emphasized in Pennsylvania Sunday night when a young Indiantown Gap soldier, out of the goodness of his heart, picked up two civilian hitch-hikers and was rewarded for his generous gesture by being robbed and shot. The armed travelers took off.

It may seem an ungenerous gesture to pass up a youngster standing in lonely hopefulness along the street or highway, especially if he be a man in uniform. The imagination envisages a boy hurrying home on a brief leave from military duties, or returning from the Korean front, or perhaps on the way back to civilian life he formerly led.

It may seem heartless to drive past these lads, especially if your car is empty, but such incidents as the shooting of the soldier who picked up the two men near Sunbury points to the other side of the picture.

Too many times during the years since thumbing a ride became virtually a national institution, assault, robbery, and murder have been the reward of many who stopped to take a stranger aboard.

Call it callous, or heartless, or just plain selfish, but the fact remains that the man who drives past the hopeful hitcher of hikers is more sure of returning safely to his home than one who stops.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—Housewives are now paying for the government's bungling in trying to control potato production. Prices will be higher, supplies scarcer and good table grade spuds practically unattainable.

Department of Agriculture officials hope the shortage will only be temporary, but they admit that the potato market today is in a mess because of previous government regulations that cost us taxpayers $500,000,000 and led to the destruction of millions of bushels of potatoes.

Americans consume 1,000,000 bushels of potatoes a day, but unless the price ceiling is raised there won't be that many available in the market for several months. Some growers are talking about a 20 per cent increase in potato prices to stimulate more farm interest in spud growing.

The idiotic price support program brought thousands of new growers into the market who made money on submarginal land by producing below-grade potatoes to sell to the government. Top grade growers in Maine, Florida, California and Long Island, New York, stayed in the potato business when regulations and support prices were discontinued in 1951, but most of them cut their acreage.

Right now potatoes are being shipped into this country from Canada and Spain, although the quantity is not large. The U.S. normally imports potatoes from Canada at this time of the year, anyway. Since 1951, however, Canada has been buying large quantities of cheap U.S. spuds. Our prices are controlled, Canadian spud prices are not, so Canada has made a good thing out of buying from us and their selling them back at better prices.

The Department of Agriculture, naturally, will make a political issue out of the potato situation. It is still loaded with political philosophers who want to control everything and support the price of everything grown on the farm. It practically broke their hearts when Congress got sick of seeing huge mounds of spuds being destroyed and knocked out the price support program. Officials are getting set to blame Congress and praise the administration's wisdom in wanting to retain the price support program or reinstate it now.

Nothing would be solved, however, if the government got back into the potato market with another wasteful buying program.

The same marginal producers would start digging spuds again. What is needed now is a little more time so the good producers can increase their acreage and yield by investing in fertilizer and other growing aids. In California for instance, potato producers are increasing their acreage by about 20 per cent, while throughout the country there is an average of 20 per cent fewer acres of farm land going into potato production.

Florida spuds are beginning to arrive in the eastern markets but most of them have not matured fully. Growers are digging them prematurely to take advantage of the higher wholesale prices now prevailing.

The potato mess is just another example of what happens when the government attempts to control the economy. And when the Department of Agriculture let go, producers were caught off balance, with no way of knowing what demand there would be for spuds in the future, or how many competitors would stay in business after the lush government market ended.

It takes time to adjust the law of supply and demand after government economists finish tampering with it. The Department of Agriculture estimates that we will be short 10 million bushels of good-grade "table" potatoes this year, even though there is no acreage control, but they do not know how much production will be increased by the big growers.

The short supply of spuds creates its own vicious circle. The shortage sends the price of seed spuds up and this in turn discourages some planters. Right now it costs about $100 to plant an acre of potatoes. Last year it cost from $45 to $55.

Government economists, of course, are feeling sorry for potato growers and are itching to get the spuds back under controls again. Potato growers, however, haven't had a lean year in quite some time, and they don't want it. If the government keeps its hand off, the producers will win the battle to rescue their business from the tampering of the economic planners.

The banana, until today, has always been simply a banana.

It was something to eat; something that was fattening if you ate too many of them; something that, according to Chiquita Banana, grew at the Equator and should therefore never be kept in the refrigerator.

The banana has become a classic, an adventurer, the subject of a 28-page scientific research under the auspices of the American Oriental Society.

This research, published in the form of a pamphlet by the United Fruit Company, concludes with this impressive paragraph:

"This field of culture history is challenging and worthy of continuing intensive research, so that we may broaden our knowledge of the history of those food plants which—like the banana—are of economic importance and have come down to us through the ages."

I want to say right here that I cannot for the life of me see why the banana should have such enormous cultural importance.

My own experience with bananas is that if I eat too many of them I get fat, and if I eat them cold (we DO keep them in the refrigerator) and too fast I get a stomach ache.

That, for me, is research enough.

But back to the booklet.

The author, Philip Keep Reynolds, who is not otherwise identified, acknowledges his thanks for cooperation to several professors, among them the late Dr. A. K. Coomaraswamy, of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts; to the Metropolitan Museum, to the New York Public Library, to the Harvard Journal of Asiatic Studies, the Harvard-Yenching Institute, and to Mrs. C. Y. Fang for permission to quote certain passages from the book "The Banana in Chinese Literature."

I bet you never knew that the humble banana, hanging modestly at your fruiterer's or grocer's, had so many college degrees.

In its early days the banana apparently was quite a traveler. The author quotes Alphonse de Candolle as follows (please don't worry if you never heard of Candolle. I didn't either):

"The antiquity and wild character of the banana in Asia are incontestable facts."

From which I presume that it took banana quite some time and effort to sow its wild oats.

Candolle also says that bananas were found among the Greeks, Latins and Arabs; that they were exported in India, in China and in the Archipelago, "from an epoch impossible to realize."

In 706 A.D., a Chinese writer, Meng Hsin, wrote something called "Shih-liao pen-t'sao" and said this about the banana:

"When eaten raw, it quenches thirst and lubricates the lungs. After it is cooked by steaming, dry it in the sun until it bursts, then grind the pulp to powder. Thus prepared, it is taken to stimulate the circulation of the blood and to strengthen the marrow of the bones."

The writer also says that four or five bananas are enough for a meal. "After eating, the flavor lingers on among the teeth. Kanchiao is another name for it."

I do hope that after reading this you will treat your bananas henceforth with a little more respect.

Virginia staged its own "tea party" in 1774 when the colonists took a consignment of tea from a storehouse and dumped it into the York river.

Judicial Review
President Truman's assertion of unlimited power, no longer stoutly maintained, challenged by the decision of Judge David A. Pine, is now on appeal to the United States Supreme Court on a writ of certiorari.

In our system of checks and balances, the executive and legislative branches of government are independent of the judicial, but the majesty of the law crowns all three who must abide by it. The issue in hand is not wages, prices, profits, steel or cigarette butts. The issue is whether the President may function without a law.

In one of the earliest and most important cases argued before the Supreme Court, Chisholm vs. Georgia, Justice James Wilson in 1793, only four years after the Constitution was adopted, fully stated the authority of the American nation over all men within it. This decision knocks down any theory of unlimited powers and is the first step in establishing the right of judicial review. I quote from it the applicable paragraphs:

"Whoever considers in a combined and comprehensive view the general texture of the Constitution will be satisfied that the people of the United States intended to form themselves into a nation for national purposes. They instituted, for such purposes, a national government, complete in all its parts, with powers legislative, executive and judiciary; and in all those powers extending over the whole nation. Is it congruous that, with regard to such purposes, any person, natural or artificial, should be permitted to claim successfully an entire exemption from the jurisdiction of the national government? Would not such claims, crowned with success, be repugnant to our very existence as a nation?"

The court decided that it possessed the power, in this particular case, to review matters between States and between a citizen and a State.

Ten years later, in 1803, Chief Justice John Marshall wrote the outstanding decision of Marbury vs. Madison, which established beyond doubt the authority of the Supreme Court to provide judicial review where needed. He wrote:

"The judicial power of the United States is extended to all cases arising under the Constitution."

"Could it be the intention of those who gave this power to say that in using it the Constitution should not be looked into? That a case arising under the Constitution should be decided without examining the instrument under which it arises?"

"This is too extravagant to be maintained."

"In some cases, then, the Constitution must be looked into by the judges. And if they can open it at all, what part of it are they forbidden to read or to obey?"

Marshall decided:

"Thus, the particular phraseology of the Constitution of the United States confirms and strengthens the principle, supposed to be essential to all written constitutions, that a law repugnant to the Constitution is void, and that courts, as well as other departments, are bound by that instrument."

In the Steel Seizure Case, the President has taken a step for which he has no law. In a word, he has exceeded his authority. That is the purport of Judge Pine's decision, which says:

"These (enumerated by him) are the only sections (of the Constitution) which have any possible relevancy, and their mere enumeration shows the utter fallacy of defendant's claim."

"Neither singly nor in the aggregate do they grant the President, expressly or impliedly, as that term has heretofore been defined, the 'residuum of power' or 'inherent' power which authorizes him, as defendant claims, to take such action as he may deem to be necessary. Including seizure of plaintiffs' properties, whenever in his opinion an emergency exists requiring him to do so in the public interest. Instead, in Congress is lodged, within Constitutional limitations, the power to provide for the common defense and general welfare."

The Supreme Court has held that it has no general supervising power over the proceedings and actions of the various administrative departments of government. However, the court may decide on the rights of individuals (or corporations) under the Constitution. The confiscation of property and protection against executive acts unwarranted by law do properly come within the scope of the judicial power.

The unanimous decision of the Supreme Court last Saturday to accept jurisdiction in the appeals of the various parties to Judge Pine's decision, and the issuance of a stay forbidding the change of the status quo regarding wages, unless mutually agreed upon, or itself establishes the truth that in the United States, no official, including the President, possesses unlimited powers.

There's an antique shop in an up-state New York village, according to John Straley, whose proprietor is a whimsical octogenarian who has his own way of doing things. Above the clock is a sign reading, "This clock is only for the use of people who buy something." Another placard assures visitors, "All our antiques were made on the premises." And above an old brass cuspidor in the corner, a poster proclaims, "If this town is bombed, just jump in here. Nobody ever hit it yet."

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Three shy, unflustered young British beauties got The Treatment in Hollywood the other day. It's a process known as Meeting The Press. And—leave it to Hollywood—it was done properly. Since they were Britons, tea was served.

F. Hugh Herbert, the writer-director, staged it with his wife at their stone-fronted Bel Air home. Herbert wrote, and will direct, a movie called "Pleasure Island."

"It's about an Englishman living on a Pacific island with his three daughters who have grown up there," Herbert told me. (The only way to gather any information at these parties is to get there on time. That puts you far ahead of everybody else.)

"Suddenly 1,500 U. S. Marines land on the island. From then on, it's the frantic effort of the father to protect the virtue of his daughters from the U. S. Marines."

Because of accent requirements, Herbert wanted real English girls to play the parts. He traveled to London. "It was the week of the King's funeral," he recalled. "The papers were delighted to use anything to lighten the gloom, so the Paramount offices and my hotel room were deluged with applicants."

The three lookers he picked had had no movie experience. Audrey Dalton, 18, who resembles Joan Bennett, was born in Dublin and lived there until two years ago. Her father is Sam Goldwyn's London representative.

Joan Egan, 22, was born in Ceylon and raised there and in Surrey. Her father is a retired tea grower. Dorothy Bromley, 21, was born in Manchester. Her

Double Feature

The contention that Harry Truman will bear watching in the coming Presidential C convention Sweepstakes was borne out by a recent event, the President's performance against the Kentucky Derby. It marked the debut of both the Derby and the President on a video entertainment program. Both came at almost the same time. (We thought Harry gave Hill Gail a battle all the way. While we wouldn't call it a photo, we would certainly place the President closer to the winner than Sub Fleet or Blue Man. Harry made a great showing at the weights.)

In fact, H.S.T. surprised all form students. They had him tabbed on past performance as an excitable, temperamental fellow plenty troublesome. Some folks expected him to be difficult to handle. But he showed a most complete form reversal and was cool, calm and free of irritability at all times. Our chart writer, a little confused through seeing both the President's White House tour and the Derby by video, summed up this way: "Harry fooled everybody by not cutting up at all. Don't forget that he had come off two tough heats, a gruelling speech the night before on corruption and a tough six furlongs with the steel magnates and workers that afternoon. But he came on the track fresh and fit."

Our chart would have read: "Harry broke fast in the main lobby and was under a pull in the diplomatic reception room. Cronkite up. He was just galloping

Russell Shiffer Resigns As Borough Public Works Director

No Successor Named; Health Job Still Open

Russell R. Shiffer, superintendent of public works in Stroudsburg since 1940 has resigned. A letter of resignation submitted to council last night was accepted to "very deep regrets."

Council will hold a special meeting in the near future to consider applicants for the important post. Mr. Shiffer will continue to work until a successor is named.

Members of council voted to continue Edward Shep, secretary of board of health as acting health officer pending advice to current applicants for that post that they will be required to spend at least 12 weeks at a special health officer's school in Pittsburgh.

There were a number of applicants for the health post—made vacant by the death of John Young—but council felt all of them should know the post will be a full-time job and that three months' schooling is a prerequisite.

H. L. Keiper and his counsel, Attorney C. Edward DePuy appeared before council regarding an investigation which Engineer Edward C. Jess made regarding reports the Keiper laundry is hooked to the borough sewage system.

Council referred the entire matter to their solicitor, George T. Robinson. Mr. Robinson will file a report at a special meeting of council on which council will base its action.

Charles Yaggie, East Stroudsburg RD, was awarded a contract for curbing, curb and gutter and sidewalk replacement on Williams St. and Mill alley. His bid was $2,370.90.

James Somers, borough treasurer reported receipts of $5,622, expenses of $7,749.24 and a balance of $10,254.71 in regular account.

For the sewer account receipts during the past month were $8,973.48, expenses $1,759.12 and balance May 1, $13,029.77.

Mr. Shiffer reported expenditures of $1,842.70 on April authorizations.

Chief of Police James F. McConnell reported 96 arrests and citations and $384 in fines for April.

Assistant Fire Chief Fred Miller reported a number of fires, largely grass fires, which involved 149 man-hours per fire and utilized use of 3,600 feet of large hose, 600 feet of inch and a half and 700 feet of booster hose.

Nearly 80 Parents Attend Child Guidance Conference

The documentary film "Angry Boy" provided discussion material last night at Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church for a group of nearly 80 parents who attended a meeting devoted to National Mental Health Week.

Dr. Charles Morris, of the Monroe-Northampton Child Guidance Clinic, acted as moderator for the discussion period which followed the showing of the film. Dr. Morris answered individual questions from the audience on problems connected with the film and with various other family relations in everyday life.

"Angry Boy," as its title implies is the story of a school-age child, Tommy Randall, who is (as one lady in the audience stated) "angry with the world."

The "anger" displayed by the boy is brought about by two major things in his life at home: (1) family tensions and (2) a domineering mother.

The family tensions grow out of a twisted and complex relationship between the mother and the father in which the mother is constantly cast as the villain, disciplining the boy and nagging in argument with the father.

This situation is further complicated by the presence of the maternal grandmother in the home. Through years of forced obedience to her own mother, Mrs. Randall has come to resent her so much that she is incapable of coping with the problems of her son and husband.

In an effort to "strike back" at his mother, Tommy falls into the habit of stealing—first it's a bracelet which belongs to his mother; then, finally, Tommy takes money from his teacher's purse in school, knowing his mother will be told about it and will be hurt.

Through a guidance center, both Mrs. Randall and Tommy are helped to understand their basic problems.

Immediately following the sound film, Dr. Morris is asked for opinions on the motion picture and for questions concerning either the problem described in the movie or others in which the parents, teachers and social workers who were in attendance, might be interested.

In response to an audience question as to "why both parents were not interviewed instead of just the mother," Dr. Morris said that in most cases the father is "too busy and away from home too much" so that proper interviews cannot be arranged with him.

Dr. Morris was in agreement with the statement of one social worker in the audience who said: "I think the work would have gone a lot faster if both parents could have been interviewed regularly." In many cases, he pointed out, it is possible to use both parents and get a clearer picture of the child's trouble in a shorter period of time.

Speaking from his experience with the Easton guidance center and work with St. Christopher's hospital in Philadelphia, Dr. Morris pointed out also that the psychiatrist or clinician in charge of each case attempt to bring in as many outside "sources" as possible if these sources are directly associated with the child.

Throughout the discussion, Dr.

Four Forest Fires Brought Under Control

Fire-fighters in the county had a slightly easier time of it yesterday. Only two new fires broke out in the dry woods.

One was located near the site of the fire which had been burning yesterday north of Marshalls Creek. It started in the middle of the afternoon. The fire, still smoldering from the previous day, also came to renewed life in the brisk wind.

Fire-fighters and the district forester's men tackled both blazes, and had them knocked down last night.

Another of the fires, located near the Circle H. Ranch, between Woodlake and Brodheads Creek road, also was fanned to life a few times during the day but was knocked down by foresters.

A small blaze broke out near Pocono Mountain Inn during the day but was out before it could do much damage. Fearful of the strong wind, wardens, rangers, volunteers and Buck Hill Falls Fire Co. jumped the flames with all equipment and had it extinguished in about 15 minutes.

Monomnock Introduces Novel Idea

The managing director of Monomnock Inn, Charles D. Geissinger, has come up with a novel idea which, he feels, will stimulate interest in both the Poconos and in his resort, through encouraging travel agencies to recommend Monomnock to their customers.

Through an arrangement with an Ohio "merchandise incentive specialist" company, Geissinger's resort will award a certain number of "prize points" to agents who offer the inn to their customers. An additional number of points will be given for each account which comes to the resort.

These points are, in turn, credited toward a prize which the agent or agency wishes—ranging from electric irons and radios to watches and luggage.

In connection with the drive to interest agencies more actively in Monomnock, the resort is carrying on an extensive direct mail campaign outlining the rules and purpose of the awards.

Fossa Announces Purchase Of Pocono Mountain Inn

A tentative opening date of June 14 has been set for the Pocono Mountain Inn, Cresco, by the new owner and manager, Walter Fossa.

Negotiations between Mr. Fossa and Pocono Lodges, Inc., were completed May 1 for the possession of the 75-acre resort on Route 90. Mr. Fossa immediately made public plans to change the operating policy of the resort to accent its appeal to youth. This new policy will necessitate the closing of the famous "Rainbow Room" since Mr. Fossa feels that a public night club at a vacation resort conflicts with the normal operation of the resort.

Fossa's acquisition of the inn climaxes 22 years of direct association with the resort business. He began his career in 1930 assisting in the management of Sigamore on Twin Lakes near Milford in Pike County.

In 1946 Fossa and Ted Grant purchased the old Heinemann Farm property in Paradise. From this property they developed the successful Merry Hill Lodge.

During vacation season last year, Fossa was engaged to revive "Laurel Time" in this area, an endeavor which highlighted the entire summer season.

Fossa was reportedly considering a second such assignment on behalf of the community when he was given the opportunity to purchase Pocono Mountains Inn.

During the past decade, Fossa has served as vice-president of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau and has been a member of the board of directors, Mount Pocono Chamber of Commerce.

He is currently busy with plans to "improve and expand" the facilities at the inn.

Onawa Lodge Makes Plans For Reunion

The weekend of June 13 has been selected as the date for the annual "reunion" of former guests and friends at Onawa Lodge near Mountainhome.

Harry L. Shinnen and his son are this year marking the 27th season of Onawa's operation under their management.

The "reunion" has been planned to coincide with the mountain laurel time in the Poconos, Mr. Shinnen said yesterday.

A cocktail party on the Onawa lawn will open the weekend festivities, followed by the annual reunion dinner Saturday night, featuring professional entertainers.

The "Laurel Ball" will be held Saturday night, June 13 in the Onawa Casino.

Numerous other activities have been scheduled for the weekend, including a softball game, a country hayride and a trapshooting contest.

These special entertainments are in addition to the usual swimming, tennis, volleyball, badminton and shuffleboard which are always a part of the lodge's activities.

Car Wrecked But Driver Not Injured

Scioto — A driver escaped injury but his car was wrecked when it left the highway and overturned at 2 a.m. yesterday a half mile east of here on Route 209.

Brodheads State police said the driver was Don Wilkinson, 24, Nazareth. He told police he was driving west and that he was forced to the right edge of the road by an on-coming truck.

His wheel hit the curb, throwing the car out of control, he told police. The vehicle swerved back to the left side of the highway, went off and overturned on its left side, he said.

The car, a $1,750 loss, was towed to a Bangor garage.

Rosens Start Expanding Ceramics Pottery Plant

The seventeenth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James Gaffney

One of the most unique industries in the area, yet not too widely known publicly is Design Technics, a ceramics pottery firm which has incorporated 15 years of research into the development of a product made on exclusive lines.

Located about three miles west of Stroudsburg, just off Route 209, the cement block plant is the hub of an extensive wheel of distribution. Its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Rosen have captured in their articles the finesse desired by their potential customers and are considered tops in the custom-made ceramics field.

When the Rosens moved here five years ago they entered the Stroudsburg with the intention of spending the rest of their days here devoted to their work. Coming from New York City, where they maintained a shop, their chief thought was for seduction, since the unusual patterns utilized in their pottery required complete concentration.

Ceramic pottery, like a woman's hat, must appeal to the individual and not be expressly a mass production affair that reaches the market only to find the same style being sold over the same counter.

The designs by Mrs. Rosen, who also teaches sculpture and art in New York City's specialized public schools, vary in great degrees where effect is concerned and show specifically that the creative art is applied on every inch of the pottery.

The variations, and there are about 200 of them, help Design Technics maintain their individuality in the field and their research work, which continues daily, has perfected their production.

At present workmen are laying the foundation for an 8,000 square foot extension of the plant. The added space is necessary so the Rosens and their 12 employees may produce in greater volume, since the demand for this particular product is increasing daily. The additional building will double the capacity of the workshop and provide storage space, lacking at present.

In the near future the Rosens expect to sell their articles directly to people residing in and visiting the Stroudsburgs. Today they have a showroom at 47 E. 29th St. in New York City that employes three full time workers. Rosen explained the articles sold locally will be rejects and may be purchased for considerable saving. He emphasized they will not be pieces of "cracked pottery," since all items of this nature are discarded. The product to be sold here will be only slightly defective.

At their New York showroom lamps are finished, shades attached and various other finishing touches completed before presented to the public. Recently Rosen traveled to San Francisco where he opened up a complete department of his ceramic pottery for the nationally known home furnishing concern, Sloans. This department is stocked exclusively with pottery made here.

Most of the artistic pieces turned out here are sold to interior decorators and designers. Their line includes custom made dinner ware, lamps and all types of decorative accessories, such as vases, ash trays and a host of other articles. From the paper work, which includes all designs by Mrs. Rosen, to the actual shipping of the pottery, all work is done here at the plant.

Different types of clay are shipped here from Kentucky, Florida, Tennessee and Georgia, arriving in large bags. Taking the raw form of clay the first operation is to formulate it into a balanced mixture. This is done in large vats which later is aged from 12 hours to two weeks and pumped to the main floor where it is poured into molds. Inside the mold the water is absorbed and the clay forms a shell.

After the shell is made the product is glazed with special colors which come from practically every type metallic oxide and then the stoneware is treated, either hand carved while moist or decorated

Kiwanis Club Witnesses Health Films

Two films, "Cancer, What to Avoid" and "How to Catch a Cold" were shown at the meeting of Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at the Penn-Stroud hotel yesterday afternoon. Dr. T. I. Metzgar was the program chairman and Wilmer B. Frisbie operated the projector.

The cancer film had to do principally with quack doctors who use the disease illegally for personal gains during which it was pointed out that "100,000 are 'murdered' annually and millions of dollars" collected in fees. A warning was given to avoid the quacks and, if in doubt as to treatment, to contact county medical societies. Difficulty in prosecuting the quacks was also brought out. The film was produced by the Pennsylvania Medical Society.

The film having to do with colds was along humorous, but impressive lines.

Parke W. Kunkle, vice president, presided in place of Gilbert L. Smrz, president, who is on a business trip through the South for Line Material Co. of East Stroudsburg.

Dr. W. R. Erickson furnished bouquets of flowers for the head table and Russell Harmon was welcomed back from North Carolina where he spent several months at La Bar rhododendron estates. Alan Keiper and Charles T. Miller were reported improving and A. J. Zabriske was congratulated on his birthday.

Elwood Hintze, inter-club committee chairman, announced a delegation of some 20 club members and ladies would go to Allentown tonight when Claude B. Hellmann, international president, will be a guest of the club at the Americus hotel.

Walt McClelland led the singing with Numa Snyder at the piano. Visiting Kiwanians were Earl E. Garber, Bethlehem, and S. R. Stadtfeld, New Haven, Conn.

promote their business, elevating it to take its place with the progressive industries in the area.

Dr. Shafer Tells Eagles Of Travels

Dr. Floyd W. Shafer, Stroudsburg, gave an illustrated lecture on travels through the "lowlands" of Europe at a meeting of Stroudsburg Aerie, 1106, Fraternal Order of Eagles, this week.

Preceding Dr. Shafer's talk and showing of colored slides, the order passed on 14 applicants for membership and outlined plans for their annual Mother's Day observance this Sunday.

The observance here will be part of a nation-wide celebration by all Eagles lodges honoring mothers of the world. Such an observance was first proposed back in 1904 by Frank Hering, an Eagle, at a rally of the order memorial service in Indianapolis, Ind.

Continual promotion of the idea resulted — 12 years later — in Congressional designation of the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day.

Al Ruster, president of the local lodge, said the part the Eagles played in bringing about a national observance of Mother's Day will be broadcast by Ted Malone Sunday, May 11 at 7:15 p.m. over Radio Station WVPO. The program will last 15 minutes.

Citizens of six counties—including Monroe—will be in attendance. The others are Berks, Carbon, Lehigh, Northampton and Schuyl-kill.

The meeting will be one in a series to be held throughout the State. The views expressed will be studied and collated by the Governor's Committee on Children and Youth, composed of some 50 prominent persons.

Among those attending from Monroe County will be Mrs. T. F. Rhodes, Stroudsburg, member of the Governor's steering committee for the middle-eastern part of the State, and first vice-president of the county's Children's Aid; Mrs. Frank L. Secor, principal of East Stroudsburg schools.

All members of the public are invited to the session. Those who wish to testify, however, should first contact Helen McManus, Governor's Committee, Department of Welfare, Harrisburg, to find out the requirements.

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Anna Logans To Report Dance Tickets

A work period will follow the business meeting for those who can stay, and refreshments will be served by Mrs. M. J. Leitner's team.

Mrs. Robert Miller, president, has asked that members report on ticket sales for the dance to be held at the Penn-Stroud Ballroom on Saturday night from 9 to 12. They have been asked to report to Mrs. John Stanford before Saturday.

The dance, second annual affair, will benefit the General Hospital of Monroe County and is held in celebration of National Hospital Day. Tickets may be purchased from any member of Anna Logan, or at Kresge's, Flagler's and Rea and Derrick Drug Stores or Wirt D. Miller Grocery.

Music for the dance will be furnished by Numa Snyder's orchestra.

Mrs. Cora Miller Is Honored On 92nd Birthday

Mrs. Cora Alice Miller, of Gilbert, was the guest of honor at a surprise party held at her home celebrating her 92nd birthday on Friday night, May 2. The party had been arranged by her children.

The table was decorated with numerous birthday cakes and a huge bouquet of spring flowers. Mrs. Miller received many gifts and refreshments were served.

Guests included were Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Murphy and children, Patsy and Dean, of Effort; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Christman, of Palmerton; Mr. and Mrs. J. Stotz Singer, Bethlehem; Mr. and Mrs. William Kresge and son, Billy, of Brodheadsville; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Christman, Gilbert; Robert Miller and John Lander, Pocono Manor; and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Raughley, of Gilbert and the guest of honor.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Spring seems to be bringing out the bright party ideas as well as the decorations for the party tables.

The hot dog roast was maybe a little premature, because I notice they went inside to finish up on marshmallows. Over the electric range they roasted them—and I'm wondering who cleaned up the burners.

That circus party in Canadensis must have been quite an affair with a real clown, and circus tents for cakes, and from the list of good things to eat which the women served the men at the work frolic at the Cherry Lane Church, I'm afraid all that good exercise isn't going to reduce their waistslines one little bit.

Mothers Day parties are blossoming all over the place and the Middle Smithfield mothers blossomed out with carnations and some of the Brownie mothers went home with pictures of their own small Brownies in Brownie made frames.

Mothers are funny people, and right now I imagine Mrs. Gearhart is more concerned with how Paul will do in the rhythm band at the Smithfield concert tonight than about how they're going to do in their own Community Concert next Monday night.

The thing most mothers are worrying about, though, is how they're ever going to live through all the extra festivities just long enough to get to Mothers Day.

Morley and Gearhart—duo-pianists

Community Concert Artists To Play For Home Folks Here

The final Community Concert of the season on Monday night at 8:15 at the auditorium of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will be of more than ordinary interest to local subscribers. It will feature Morley and Gearhart, duo-pianists, outstanding artists with Columbia artists, and friends and neighbors of the people of Monroe County.

It is as Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Gearhart, of Shawnee, where they make their home, that they are known to their friends here. They have taken a personal interest in the Pocono Community Concerts and presented an informal concert for the campaign chairmen and their committees at the dinner marking the opening of the drive last Fall.

The program committee of the Pocono Community Concert also had a personal interest in the artists and marked the coming concert as "reserved" on their schedule even before the campaign began.

Virginia Morley and Livingston Gearhart have been acclaimed by New York critics with unusual praise. An interesting feature of their career has been that they have pleased widely varied audiences—from the experts of the League of Composers, music lovers in the world's most famous concert halls, fans of Fred Waring's radio-television program where they appear as weekly guests, and patrons of such New York Niteries as the St. Regis Roof.

The Morley and Gearhart romance of marriage and music began when Virginia Morley met Livingston Gearhart while they were both scholarship students at Fontainebleau Conservatory in France. Before that she had studied privately and won the highest honors in piano and composition at Mills College, California. A scholarship made it possible for her to study under Robert Casadesus.

Livingston Gearhart first studied with his mother, a pupil of Leschetizky and later won a scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia where he studied piano, oboe and composition. In Paris he worked with Nadia Boulanger.

After their Paris debut, they gave recitals with great success throughout France, and have since crossed America on recital tours many times.

Mr. Gearhart is also a composer and has had one of his choral works performed at the Library of Congress in Washington, and a composition for the ballet was commissioned by the Paris Opera. He has written many unusual orchestral arrangements for Fred Waring and is author of a book for violin students, "Fiddle Sessions."

They have a six-year-old son, Paul, who is a student at Smithfield School.

The Mizpah Class of the East Stroudsburg Baptist Church will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Sunday School rooms.

Homemakers Rally Held At Saylorsburg

Saylorsburg—About 70 homemakers of the county gathered last Thursday at the firehall in Saylorsburg for the spring meeting of the adult home economics groups of the county of which Miss Margaret MacLaren is county leader.

Demonstrations, talks and a fashion show marked the day-long meeting during which members exhibited their projects for the year.

Mrs. Wendell Wicks, beginning what seemed to be a serious discussion of "What It Means To Be a Good Citizen" was interrupted by a number of women who apparently disagreed with her statements. After the members realized that the interruptions were part of the program, they too joined in and an interesting discussion followed.

The afternoon session, which followed a luncheon served by the Saylorsburg group with Mrs. Oscar Bonser as chairman, was devoted to the display of articles made during the winter months.

Mrs. Robert B. Irwin demonstrated how she had made placemats and other handwoven articles on a small loom. Mrs. Walter Herman showed articles made from raffia and pine needles.

Women who had made clothes as part of their project gave an informal fashion show.

Mrs. Andrew Euhler, of Easton, spoke on her hobbies and how they had grown until now they really were a business. She had started working with shells, making jewelry, scorecard decorations and other articles; branched out into paper mache articles for her children and neighbors; and finally added woodcarving, painting, etching, stenciling, textile painting and ceramics to her list of hand made articles. She also described stamp and doll collecting as hobbies.

Many more women joined the afternoon session and the clubs from Stroudsburg, Bossardsville, Neola, Tannersville, Appenzel, Meixell's Valley, Shawnee and Saylorsburg were represented.

Miss MacLaren outlined the plans for the woman's camp this year to be held at Lake Ariel in June. Slides were shown of last year's exhibits and of the local women at camp last year.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

A recent telephone call from Miss Nellie Burd informed us of a Lutheran minister from Orlau, Poland, who had arrived in this country and was visiting with a sister in Delaware Water Gap. Miss Burd felt that the Rev. Jacob Gerhardt had a story everyone would enjoy hearing, and she suggested that he be a guest on the Wyckoff Shopper radio program.

Yesterday afternoon, I met this displaced minister for the first time. Since he speaks most fluently in German and Polish, while I speak only English, it was necessary to work through an interpreter, and Mrs. Otto Gehm of the Gap, had very kindly volunteered her services. Rev. Gerhardt's story proved, primarily, to be one of faith . . . like a shining light that has gloriously penetrated the dark places of despair, carrying him, through tragedy, to a new life in a free country.

Later, while attending to some of my shopping errands on the first floor, I met his wife, a smiling, pleasant-mannered woman, who replied haltingly to my greeting, "I understand you well, but speak so little, being here only three weeks."

This morning, Rev. Gerhardt and Mrs. Gehm will be heard on the Wyckoff Shopper broadcast, and I most sincerely urge all of you to listen. Rev. Gerhardt comes with a message of gratitude—for the gifts and prayers that kind-hearted Americans have sent abroad, and for the prayers that Christians the world over have voiced for the unfortunate in war-torn lands. His story is worth hearing, for it isn't until one hears how poor others can be that he appreciates his own blessings.

Here And There In Wyckoff's:— For the past several days, the corridor outside the office has been jammed with packing cases as Bill Weiss supervised the packing of Tony Kovaleski's antique toys, displayed here during our 77th anniversary. Now they're back in Scranton and the anniversary is only a memory. But a glorious one! . . . Sorry, but the sale price prevalent during our celebration is no longer in effect. I mention this for those of you who do your shopping by mail . . . Brownies Honor Mothers At First Troop "Fly-Up"

A Mother's Day program was combined with a Brownie "Fly-up" for Troop 22, East Stroudsburg Brownies, at their meeting yesterday afternoon at Grace Lutheran Church.

It was the first fly-up for the comparatively new troop, and the new Girl Scouts received their wings from the Brownie leaders, and their Girl Scout pin from Mrs. Sarah Bard, their new leader.

A group of five Brownies told the Brownie story before welcoming into their troop a new Brownie, Tara Miah, who received her Brownie pin from Mrs. Ellsweig.

The entertainment included a minuet danced by 8 Brownies, a piano solo by Evelyn Hennet, and songs sung by the whole troop.

Refreshments were served at a table decorated by the children themselves, with hand decorated napkins and candy cups in the shape of spring bonnets. Each Brownie presented her mother with a gift—a snapshot of the Brownie, herself in a frame she had made.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Harry Schaeffer felt the razor-sharp edge of the pruning shears, as wielded by Manager Casey Stengel, and the lanky southpaw was shuffled off to Kansas City by the New York Yankees, the same club that sent out all sorts of rave notices about the former hurler with the Stroudsburg Poconos less than a month ago. Time and tide wait for no man, and when a pitcher doesn't pitch he can't win and when he doesn't win he isn't wanted—and so ends the saga of Harry Schaeffer and the New York Yankees, at least for a time.

There isn't a doubt in my mind that the popular graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will be back in the Stadium, and I will be disappointed if it isn't some time during the coming campaign. Even if he doesn't return this season, it is almost a certainty that Harry will be with the Yankees in training camp next February. Harry's work during the past training grind was outstanding, as stated by both Stengel and the New York press on many occasions.

The all-powerful Yankees sent "ish" against the Dodgers in the first game of the City Series and with knees knocking and visibly nervous over his initial big chance in the spacious Stadium, the Dodgers scored five times in five innings and treated Harry rougher than any club had until that time. However, a bit of high school infield play by Jim Briedweiser at second base, a bad throw by catcher Charley Silvers and a long fly to center that should have been caught, but fell for a triple, proved costly to the New York cause, although Schaeffer's wildness was another major factor in his downfall.

Since that date, Saturday, April 12, Schaeffer has been the batting practice hurler or an occasional visitor to the Yankees' bull pen. One poor game all Spring and the young southpaw had a ticket made out in his name for Kansas City, although the actual departure was held up until Tuesday night. How quick the New York brain trust forgot the seven-inning one-hitter against the Detroit Tigers and other outstanding shorter appearances against the Boston Red Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Harry was so good in the South that he was the first pitcher to work on the club's return to New York. There is undoubtedly reason for sending Harry to Kansas City, one that this writer will probably never be able to discover. However, I believe it safe to bet that the money angle figures very prominently in Schaeffer's shuffle off to Kansas City.

Those who have followed Harry's career and that of the now defunct Stroudsburg Poconos will recall that the left handed tosser was plucked from the Stroudsburg club for $100 by the Yankees at the end of the 1947 season, during which campaign the Poconos had a working agreement with the New York club. On the other hand, Bill Miller cost the Yankees at least $20,000, when purchased from Syracuse last season. The added price tag on Miller guarantees the kid a better shake than Schaeffer.

Prior to last Sunday Harry definitely had the edge on his southpaw rival, but Miller came up with a well pitched game against the Chicago White Sox. Soon after that contest, Schaeffer was sent to the American Association. However, the part that makes this writer fairly bold is the fact that Miller, who was certainly not the slightest bit impressive in his earlier start against the A's and had to be relieved in the third inning, received two chances to make good during the regular season, while Schaeffer wasn't even given a single relief assignment, not to mention a starting spot.

The Yankees are finding the going a little tougher than usual at this time of year at present and it may develop that Schaeffer and other young stars in the minor leagues will be brought up sooner than we think. However, New York pitchers face the task of beating out members already on the staff, not to mention "Whitey" Ford, who undoubtedly will be back in harness next season.

Whether the Yankees had reasons for sending Schaeffer to Kansas City, and they probably did, or not, the fact remains that the greatest hurler in the business can't win a place for himself on the lowest of minor league clubs without doing some pitching. From this angle, Schaeffer's option to Kansas City was one of the cruelest moves ever made by a baseball team, major or minor league.

Rider College Net Squad Gains Verdict Over Warriors

Trenton—Rider College inflicted a convincing 7-2 setback on East Stroudsburg State Teachers College in tennis yesterday, here on the winning contingent's home courts. The visiting Warriors picked up one victory in the singles and the same number in the doubles divisions.

Rider jumped off in winning style as Ed Torres took the measure of Al Malik, 6-4 and 6-2. However, Bill Schmidt gave the Warriors their only singles victory in the next match, when the visiting star won over Joe Stanko, 6-4, 1-6 and 6-4. However, the remainder of the singles action was all in favor of Rider.

Charley "Bud" Wilson, ESSTC, fell before John Korochinski, 3-6, 8-10, while Bob Garrett, of the visiting forces, took it on the chin at the hands of Ray Richter, 5-7, 6-2 and 6-8. Rider's Ralph Pearce won over Joe Maiorillo, 1-6, 6-3 and 6-4, while the home team's Charley Golander was too much for Jack McAndrews in the final singles event, 6-1 and 6-2.

Malik and Garrett teamed together to score the only ESSTC win in the doubles, as the visiting twosome won over Korochinski and Pearce, 6-4, 2-6 and 6-3. However, Rider's Stanko and Torres combined to down Schmidt and Wilson, 6-3, 2-6 and 6-3. Golander and Tom Kolo were too much for McAndrews and Maiorillo in the final doubles encounter, 1-6, 6-4 and 6-3.

The unfinished match between the two teams on the Normal Hill courts recently goes into the books as rained out, as the two schools were unable to complete the action yesterday.

Bowlers Register

Twenty mixed double teams registered for the mixed doubles tournament to be staged at Harmon's Recreation next Wednesday, last night. The action is scheduled to get underway at 8 p.m. next Wednesday.

Davey Proves Vejar's Master In Chicago Ring

Chicago, (AP)—Unbeaten "Chuck" Davey, scoring four spectacular knockdowns, last night easily defeated "Chico" Vejar with harpooning lefts to the face and stomach in their ten round welterweight battle in Chicago Stadium.

The decision of the two judges and Referee Frank Sikora was unanimous. Making an astonishing whirlwind finish, Vejar was credited with winning only the tenth round. The second and the ninth were declared even.

Davey, fancy boxing southpaw, outsmarted and outmaneuvered the New York University dramatic arts freshman, by his savage two-fisted attack to the head and body.

Contention

The victory moved Davey, unbeaten in 33 bouts, into contention as the foremost challenger of Cuban Kid Gavilan's welterweight championship.

Davey, holder of a master's degree from Michigan State College, scored two knockdowns in the first round, one in the sixth, and another in the seventh.

Davey was complete master of the 20-year-old Stamford, Conn., youth in all but three rounds. After breaking even in the second and ninth rounds, "Chico" staged

Rider Inflicts First Loss Of Season On ESSTC

Werkheiser Blasts Fourth Home Run

Trenton — East Stroudsburg State Teachers College went down to its initial baseball defeat of the season here yesterday, despite another display of batting power by Jimmy Werkheiser, as Rider College scored an 11-7 decision over the visiting Warriors. These same two rivals fought to a 3-3 tie in an earlier meeting on the Normal Hill field this season.

Rider blasted Bob Mellman for six runs in the first two innings, three in each frame, but the spirited charges of Coach George Ockershausen roared back into contention with five markers in the top of the third frame.

However, the home team increased its lead to a safe margin by scoring once in the fourth, three times in the fifth and another singleton in the seventh.

The fifth inning rally chased Mellman from the hill and brought Bill "Lefty" Herring to his rescue. Lloyd Woodling worked the seventh and eighth rounds for the Warriors and was touched for a single run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Big Blows

Werkheiser lashed out his fourth home run in six games as the first batter in the ninth frame. The drive carried 385 feet into left, center field, where the spirited second sacker had lashed a booming triple in the third inning.

Harold Sisco banked out three hits and Gerald Murray joined Werkheiser in the two-hit class, as the Warriors outdid Rider, 13-9. However, the visiting defense proved weaker, committing six bobbles in the field to four for the Trenton contingent.

Kenneth Minschwaner, a junior southpaw, worked the distance on the hill for the victorious home team, although hit hard throughout the contest. Minschwaner, who now has a record of 14 wins and four setbacks since entering Rider, also led the winning attack at the plate with three of the club's nine hits.

Prior to yesterday's setback, the Warriors had taken the measure of Kutztown, Panzer, St. Peter's and the University of Scranton, in addition to battling Rider to a 3-3 deadlock.

Pirates Sink Phils Behind Pollet, 5-1

Pittsburgh (AP)—Southpaw Howie Pollet scattered five hits last night as he pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-1 win over the Philadelphia Phillies for the last place in the National League.

Bucc: The Phillies helped the Pirates cause by committing five errors. It was Pollet's first win of the season against three defeats. Russ Meyer was charged with the loss—his fourth in a row.

Dodgers Edge Cincinnati, 5-4

Cincinnati (AP)—Rookie Johnny Ruthford allowed only three hits in six and two-thirds innings of relief pitching last night as he hurled the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 5 to 4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Reds Release Bevins

Cincinnati (AP)—Bill Bevins, once great pitcher who hoped to come back to the major leagues by way of the Cincinnati Reds, was released to San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League.

The bout, which was nationally televised and radio-cast, drew a paid attendance of 8,773 persons and gross receipts of $41,603. The net receipts were $32,002. Vejar was guaranteed 25 per cent of the receipts, and Davey 20 per cent. Each also received $1,500 from radio and television rights.

Robb Joins American League Staff

By Charles Chamberlain

Chicago (AP)—President Will Harridge of the American League yesterday hired Douglas W. "Scotty" Robb, who quit his National League umpiring job two days ago after being disciplined and fined by the senior circuit's boss, Warren Giles.

The direct switch of leagues by an arbiter under such circumstances is unprecedented in the majors.

In taking the action, Harridge praised Robb as "the kind of gentleman we like to have on our staff."

"We needed another umpire and we considered Robb a good one," he added. "His first assignment for us will be in the White Sox-Boston Red Sox game in Chicago next Tuesday night."

Assigned with Robb for that game are Art Passarella, Joe Paparella and Ed Hurley.

Robb, a four-year veteran of the National League, was accused of pushing Manager Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cardinals during a game at Cincinnati April 22. Giles at a subsequent hearing fined Robb "a sizable amount and much greater than the combined fines of the players involved."

Stanky was fined $50 and Cardinal shortstop Solly Hemus drew $25. Hemus started the altercation by throwing his bat in the air when he was called out on strikes.

"Harridge telephoned Giles yesterday and asked if Robb were a free agent and could sign with the American League," said Earl Hilligan, director of public relations for the junior circuit. "When this was established, Harridge phoned Robb this morning at his Cedar Grove, N. J., home and offered him the position with us."

At his Cedar Grove printing plant, Robb said: "I'm happy to be back in baseball... And you can judge how happy I am when I say that when Mr. Harridge approached me with an offer I was so choked up I couldn't talk for a minute or two. That's how I felt."

Giles, at his N. L. headquarters in Cincinnati, said:

"I am very glad Robb has found employment. He could have continued in our league. He is a good umpire, but under the circumstances he probably will be happier in the American League. I wish him every success."

Commissioner Ford Frick in New York would not comment on the affair.

Bangor Bows To Wilson In Track Meet

Bangor—Wilson Borough proved entirely too powerful for Bangor High's track contingent here at Memorial Park yesterday and the visiting crew raced off with a convincing 75-15 victory, over the charges of Coach Paul LaBar, on the losing squad's home track.

Wilson landed a first place in every one of the ten events on the agenda and also dominated most of the second and third places handed out during the meet.

Winners

Bob LaBar finished second in the one mile and 880-yard runs for Bangor, while Abe Jannette was third in the 100-yard dash, third in the javelin and third in the shot put, for the losing squad.

Cardinals Bow To Giants, 3-1

St. Louis, (AP)—The New York Giants spoiled the starting debut of Willard Schmidt, 23-year-old right-hander of the St. Louis Cardinals last night, 3 to 1, but not before they used their two veteran masters of the mound, both 23-game winners of 1951, Sal Maglie and Larry Jansen.

The 35-year-old Maglie was credited with the victory, his fifth of the season and eighth straight. New York 000 002 100—3 8 1 St. Louis 000 000 100—1 6 0

Dedication Of Gym Bleachers Important Part Of Banquet

Pocono Pines—Dedication of bleachers for the Tobyhanna Township High School gymnasium was a major point in the annual Athletic Banquet held at the school on Tuesday night.

The bleachers, used during the past season, were presented to the school by the Wilson-Fisher American Legion Post 314 and the Pocono Lions Club.

A plaque was presented at Tuesday's banquet, during which the TTHS basketball team was honored, announcing that the bleachers were being presented in remembrance to those who have died in the Korean war, and to those who may die in the same action in the future.

Improved Seating

The new bleachers have greatly increased the seating capacity at school basketball games. TTHS has played before large crowds during the past three seasons, as the maroon and gold clad eagles have run up three straight Monroe County League championships.

Outdoor bleachers, at the baseball field, are being presented and erected by the Tobyhanna Township Fire Co.

NBA Frowns On Latest Bout

New York (AP)—Middleweight champion Ray Robinson and lightweight king Joey Maxim signed official contracts yesterday for their June 23 title bout in Yankee Stadium and immediately drew a reprimand from the National Boxing Association.

"The NBA feels that these interclass bouts between champions are not in order until the champions have defeated the logical contenders in their own divisions," the association said in a statement issued in Washington.

Contenders

The NBA said Robinson could defend his crown against such mid-dleweights as Randy Turpin of England, Gene Hurnez of New York and Charles Humez of France. It also contended that Archie Moore of St. Louis, Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, and Harry Matthews of Seattle, deserved a shot at a Maxim's crown.

Warriorettes Fall Before Swarthmore

Swarthmore—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College was forced to swallow the bitter pill of defeat in a girls' tennis match here yesterday, 3-2, at the hands of the Swarthmore lassies. ESSTC blew a 2-1 advantage as Swarthmore won both doubles matches and the final verdict.

The Warriorettes opened hostilities with a victory in the number one singles event, as Jean Hecht won over Swarthmore's Joyce Powell, 6-2, 6-3, to give the visiting team an advantage it held for only a matter of seconds, as the home club came back to win the number two singles event.

Second Singles

Peggy Woford represented Swarthmore in the second singles event and finished on the long end of a 6-1, 6-2 count over ESSTC's Elaine Hardenbergh, as the match fell into a brief deadlock.

Pauline "Polly" Shetlock put the Warriorettes back in front once again with a 6-3, 7-5 victory in the final singles match.

However, Swarthmore went on to win the match as Janet Bushman and Jill Morrell took the measure of ESSTC's Janice Hudak and Mary Martin, 6-0, 6-3, and the home team's Mary Evans and Elaine Meyer won over Carol Mosser and Ethel Moyer, 6-1, 6-3.

Indians Take Second Straight From Yankees

New York, (AP)—The Cleveland Indians made it two straight over New York yesterday as Mike Garcia scattered 12 Yankee hits for a 7-2 triumph, the Tribe's fourth in a row. The victory kept the Indians a game behind the league-leading Boston Red Sox.

Extra Bases

The Indians made 11 safeties off three Yankee hurlers but three went for extra bases, a home run by Al Rosen and back to back doubles by Luke Easter and Dale Mitchell. On the other hand, the tight-hitting Yankees collected only a pair of two-baggers among their dozen base hits and both were tainted.

Shawnee Course To Feature New Look For Annual Invitation Golf Tournament Action

Shawnee-on-Delaware — The 29th annual Shawnee Invitation Golf Tournament will be played at Shawnee Inn and Country Club here July 10, 11, 12 and 13. It was announced by Harry Obitz, who is starting his seventh season as head professional at Fred Waring's Pocono Mountain resort.

It is the fourth year of the tournament since it was renewed in 1949 after a lapse of 11 years. Started in 1912 the tournament continued annually until 1938. Ed Meister of Cleveland, won the event in both 1949 and 1950. Tom Robbins, Rye, N.Y., won the title last year.

The 6,686-yard par-72 championship course has undergone several changes since last season, particularly on the second, 14th, and 17th holes. A new tee, planting, and a change of contour has added more hazards to the 510-yard, par-five second. A new green has been added to the 14th, which in the future will be a par five dog-leg to the left instead of a par-four straightaway. To compensate for the change on the 14th, the 17th, with a new tee, has been made into a par-four instead of a par-five. Other minor changes also have been made on the championship layout.

Flights

Every player who participates in the qualifying round of the invitation is assured of a place in one of the prize winning flights. Each flight winner and runner-up will earn a trophy. Play is limited to one 18-hole match per day.

Boston Rookie Lands Fourth Pitching Victory

Boston, (AP)—Rookie southpaw Bill Henry chalked up his fourth straight pitching victory by hand-cuffing the Chicago White Sox to five hits yesterday as the Boston Red Sox swept the two-game series with a 7-2 decision.

That unbeaten youngster helped his own cause tremendously by banging a three-bagger and a single as three Chicago hurlers were slammed for nine hits. Henry's blows drove in two runs.

Clinch Matters

The Red Sox clinched matters against righthander Ken Holcombe

in the second inning by setting off a four-run explosion that was powered by Johnny Pesky's bases-loaded smash that bounced into the right field stands for a ground-rule double.

Britain's National Health Program Appears Permanent, Regardless Of Ruling Party

Editor's Note: Following is the 33rd in a series of reports from Britain and Europe by Ruth Haller Ottaway, mother of James H. Ottaway, publisher of The Daily Record. The writer is an experienced journalist and traveler and her reports from abroad in recent years have received a favorable reception by Record readers.

By Ruth Haller Ottaway

London—Prepared with the usual tickets for "the Stranger's Gallery," we were driven by the old "cabby" through gusts of falling snow and the largest flakes we had ever beheld. No British panegyrics on the "Sweet Winds of Spring" today. Up the Mall, past the Queen's former home, Clarence House, and Queen Mary's dwelling, Marlborough House with the flag flying to indicate her presence; past that formidable pile of stone, Buckingham Palace, we wended our way to the British sanctorum, Westminster Hall and the House of Commons.

Mrs. Ottaway

Among those fascinated by British pomp, ceremony and ancient gold coaches, we were, nevertheless, suddenly filled with mirth when the little procession of the speaker of the House and his several minions, all be-wigged, the foremost bearing the huge and richly chased mace, symbol of authority, preceded us into the House of Commons. With American independence we inwardly snorted (to be sure in a most cultivated manner, when we visitors were kept waiting in a herd on the stairs until a voice announced, "The speaker is seated.") The great mace also was settled in its accustomed place like a large, golden cob of corn on its standard. Then we were permitted to enter and be seated.

The preceding day until 3 a.m. the Commons had had a tumultuous session on the national health bill. In short, the 400 million pounds ($1,120,000,000) ceiling for the annual cost under the Labour Government was being met by more charges. Even the Labour Government had been forced to make a charge for glasses and dentures. Now there is to be a one pound ($2.80) charge for dental treatment (no charge of any kind for children under 16, and the indigent), a charge for surgical hoots and supports, elastic hosiery and wigs!

The grant for the underpaid doctors in the health plan of ten million pounds ($28,000,000) more a year and back pay of 40 million pounds ($112,000,000) caused the greatest protest.

Ninety per cent of the cost of the national health plan is paid from taxes. The employee, as in the U. S., pays half of the social security tax. Nine shillings, 5 pence ($1.32) is paid weekly for each employed man, the man paying 5 shillings, 1 pence ($7.1), and of the total cost only 10 pence ($1.2) goes toward the health program. Past reports have shown that mortality of children under 16 has been reduced one-half. Irrespective of the party in power, the national health program is here to stay.

All that "Battling Bessie Bradford, member of Parliament" wanted to do was to correct a misquotation from her speech. At 9:30 a.m. she had waited seven hours to catch the eye of the speaker (a long time for a woman to wait to catch the eye of a mere man). When ordered to be seated, she refused, then declined to leave the chamber when so admonished, whereupon she was suspended. Cries of "shame!" "shame!" rose from the Labour benches. It was the first suspension of a woman. The speaker's acceptance of the motion of closure for the debate stung the opposition into clamor.

replied, "your trade unions do not allow Communist members, that the trade unions are the main support of the Labour Party and of Mr. Attlee. Therefore Mr. Attlee cannot be a supporter of Stalin." So the extreme conservatives badger the extreme leftists in England just as in the United States, and our extreme Socialists join the merry-go-round against our despairing reactionaries.

But Sir Waldron Smithers is a gay and generous man who welcomed us not as "bally" Americans, but as friends. His parting words were: "A pity that you are
